

No. XXVIII.

WINE FOR MILITARY OFFICERS DUTY
FREE.

An Act to authorize the issue of Wine duty free to Military Officers serving in the Colony of New South Wales. [19th June, 1844.]

Preamble.

Wines for Military or Naval Officers
exempted from duty.

If subsequently sold except for use of other officers to be forfeited.

WHEREAS it is expedient to allow wine intended for the consumption of Military or Naval Officers serving on full pay in New South Wales or the adjoining seas to be imported into the said Colony or taken out of bond for that purpose duty free Be it therefore enacted by His Excellency the Governor of New South Wales with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof That it shall be lawful for the Governor of New South Wales or the officer administering the Government to order any wines to be delivered from any vessel or taken out of bond free of duty on such proof being adduced as the said Governor or officer administering the Government may require that such wines are bonâ fide intended for the consumption of such Naval or Military Officers serving on full pay as aforesaid.

2. And be it enacted That if any of the said wines shall be subsequently sold in the said Colony except to any person or persons purchasing the same for the use of other Naval or Military Officers serving in like manner in the said Colony or adjoining seas the same shall be forfeited and liable to seizure accordingly.
