

SUPREME COURT
TEMPORARY JUDGE
ACT CONTINUATION.

An Act to continue certain provisions of the “Supreme Court Temporary Judge Act of
1879” for the further period of one year.
[12th July, 1880.]

Preamble.

WHEREAS by the first Section of the “Supreme Court Temporary Judge Act of 1879” (being the Act of the forty-third year of Her Majesty’s Reign numbered two) the Governor with the advice of the Executive Council was empowered within twelve months after the passing of the said Act to appoint any persons as therein provided not exceeding two to be Judges of the Supreme Court for a term not exceeding twelve calendar months from the date of each Commission And whereas in pursuance of the said power one such Judge has been so appointed and no more And whereas it is expedient that the powers conferred
