

New South Wales.

ANNO QUINTO

EDWARDI VII REGIS.

Act No. 1, 1905.

An Act to provide for the appointment of a court of arbitration, and for the appointment of a deputy president with certain powers; to amend the Industrial Arbitration Act, 1901; and for purposes consequent thereon or incidental thereto. [30th June, 1905.]

INDUSTRIAL ARBITRATION (TEMPORARY COURT).
—

BE it enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly of New South Wales in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. This Act may be cited as the "Industrial Arbitration Short title.
(Temporary Court) Act, 1905," and shall be construed with the Industrial Arbitration Act, 1901.

2. The Governor may temporarily constitute the court of Temporary arbitration by the appointment — constitution of court.

- (a) of a judge of District Courts to be president of the court;
- (b) of the two persons recommended on the sixth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and five, in pursuance of the Industrial Arbitration Act, 1901, to be members of the court.

A

The Apportionment.

The provisions of the said Act in respect of the court constituted thereunder and its members respectively shall apply to the court constituted by this Act and its members respectively.

Deputy president.

3. The Governor, at the request of such president, may appoint a judge of District Courts to act as deputy president, who shall have the powers of the Court in any matter respecting the recovery of any fine or penalty incurred before or after the commencement of this Act for the breach of an award, order, or direction of the Court constituted by the Industrial Arbitration Act, 1901, or this Act, and the powers and duties of the president in respect of any matter as to which by the said Act the president, sitting alone, may adjudicate.
