SCHEDULE

THE works comprise the construction of a high tension transmission line to convey electricity from the Port Kembla Power Station to the Southern Highlands, including the towns of Mittagong, Bowral, and Moss Vale, for power and lighting purposes, with the necessary sub-stations.

The transmission line will commence at the Avon Dam and run in a westerly direction for  $4\frac{1}{2}$  miles to a point near the Main Southern Railway line about 2 miles north of Yerringbool Railway Station, then turning to the south-south-east and following generally the direction of the Main Southern Railway for  $11\frac{1}{2}$  miles to a sub-station site situated on the dividing boundary of the municipalities of Mittagong and Bowral, thence continuing further for about 6 miles to a point on the Moss Vale municipal boundary at Wingecarribee Creek, approximately at its junction with the Great Southern road.

The total length of transmission line from Avon to Moss Vale is approximately 22 miles. The construction will be bare copper conductors supported on insulators attached to hardwood poles spaced approximately 400 feet apart.

The works to be subject to such modifications and deviations as the Constructing Authority may deem necessary.
