Police Service Amendment (Transit Police) Regulation 1999

under the

Police Service Act 1990

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has made the following Regulation under the Police Service Act 1990.

PAUL WHELAN, M.P.,

Minister for Police.

Explanatory note

The object of this Regulation is to enable members of the transit police service who become police constables to be appointed for a minimum probationary period of 1 month (similar to the minimum probationary period that currently applies to ex-police officers who rejoin the Police Service) rather than 6 months (the minimum probationary period that currently applies to persons who are not ex-police officers). The Regulation also renumbers a Part and a clause by way of minor law revision.

This Regulation is made under the Police Service Act 1990, including section 219 (the general power to make regulations).

Police Service Amendment (Transit Police) Regulation 1999

Schedule 1 Amendments

(Clause 3)

[1] Clause 17 Appointment of constables on probation

Omit clause 17 (2). Insert instead:

- (2) Despite subclause (1), the Commissioner may direct that the period of probation of any such constable be a period of less than 6 months, but more than 1 month:
 - (a) if the person has previously served as a police officer in the Police Service (or as a member of the Police Force before 1 July 1990), or
 - (b) if the person was a member of the transit police service under the Police Department (Transit Police) Act 1989 immediately before 14 May 1999.

[2] Part 9 Savings and transitional provisions

Renumber the Part as Part 10.

[3] Clause 117 Police Service Amendment (Complaints and Management Reform) Regulation 1999

Renumber the clause as clause 118.
