Assisted Reproductive Technology Amendment (Transitional Provisions Relating to Donated Gametes) Regulation 2012

under the

Assisted Reproductive Technology Act 2007

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has made the following Regulation under the Assisted Reproductive Technology Act 2007.

JILLIAN SKINNER, MP
Minister for Health

Explanatory note

The Assisted Reproductive Technology Regulation 2009 deems certain requirements under the Assisted Reproductive Technology Act 2007 to have been met, or provides that they do not apply, in relation to a donated gamete obtained from the donor before the commencement of the requirement concerned (being 1 January 2010) if (among other things) the gamete is used to provide assisted reproductive technology treatment within 3 years after the commencement of the requirement. The object of this Regulation is to extend that period to within 5 years after the commencement of the requirement.

This Regulation is made under the Assisted Reproductive Technology Act 2007, including section 71 (the general regulation-making power) and clause 1 of Schedule 1.
