Outline of provisions

Clause 1 sets out the name (also called the short title) of the proposed Act.

Clause 2 provides for the commencement of the proposed Act on the date of assent, subject to specified exceptions.

Clause 3 is a formal provision that gives effect to the amendments to the Acts set out in Schedules 1–29.

Clause 4 repeals the Wardens' Courts Rules 1992.

Clause 5 provides for the repeal of the proposed Act after all the amendments made by the proposed Act have commenced. Once the amendments have commenced the proposed Act will be spent. Section 30 of the Interpretation Act 1987 provides that the repeal of an amending Act does not affect the amendments made by that Act.

Schedule 1 Amendment of Administrative Decisions Tribunal Act 1997 No 76

Schedule 1 inserts a definition of judicial officer into section 14 of the Act. The definition defines judicial officer to include a retired judicial officer, so enabling retired judicial officers to act as members of the Administrative Decisions Tribunal.

Schedule 2 Amendment of Bail Act 1978 No 161

Schedule 2 [1] amends the definition of serious personal violence offence in section 9D (4) of the Act so as to take account of amendments to section 35 (Reckless grievous bodily harm or wounding) of the Crimes Act 1900 made by the Crimes Amendment Act 2007. Schedule 2 [7] inserts savings and transitional provisions into Schedule 1 to the Act as a consequential amendment.

Schedule 2 [2] and [3] amend section 22A of the Act. Currently section 22A requires a court to refuse to entertain an application for bail by a person accused of an offence if an application by the person in relation to that bail has already been made and dealt with by a court, unless:

- (a) the person was not legally represented when the previous application was dealt with, and the person now has legal representation, or
- (b) the court is satisfied that new facts or circumstances have arisen since the previous application that justify the making of another application.

The section also prevents further applications being made to a court by lawyers for an accused person (except where the application would be permitted under paragraph (a) or (b) above).

The amendments make it clear that the restrictions in section 22A in relation to applications for bail apply only to applications in courts of the same jurisdiction, not applications in other courts.

Schedule 2 [4] inserts proposed section 22A (7) into the Act to provide that Local Courts are taken to be the same court for that purpose.

Schedule 2 [5] substitutes section 45 of the Act so as to provide that bail decisions of the District Court, Land and Environment Court, Industrial Relations Commission in Court Session or Supreme Court are reviewable by the Court of Criminal Appeal, and that other bail decisions are reviewable by the Supreme Court. Schedule 2 [6] repeals section 46 of the Act, which will be rendered unnecessary by the new section 45. Schedule 2 [7] inserts a transitional provision into Schedule 1 to the Act consequent on the proposed substitution of section 45.

Schedule 3 Amendment of Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act 1995 No 62

Schedule 3 [2] amends section 19 of the Act so as to restrict the District Court's power to order registration of a birth to births occurring within, or while in transit to, New South Wales, and to restrict the District Court's power to order the inclusion in the Births, Deaths and Marriages Register of information about a child's birth or parents to information concerning a birth that is already registered.

Schedule 3 [7] includes a provision that removes any obligation on the Registrar of Births, Deaths and Marriages to comply with an order with respect to the registration of a birth that was made before the proposed amendment to section 19 if such an order could not lawfully be made under amended section 19.

Schedule 3 [3] inserts proposed section 25A into the Act. The new section enables the Registrar of Births, Deaths and Marriages to issue a certificate, in the form of an ordinary birth certificate, in relation to an adopted person. Whereas an ordinary birth certificate contains information as to a person's birth parents and their children, the new certificate will contain the corresponding information as to the person's adoptive parents and their children. The certificate will include no information that indicates that the person has been adopted.

Schedule 3 [7] includes a provision that validates a certificate of the kind referred to in proposed section 25A that was issued before the commencement of that section.

Schedule 3 [1] inserts into section 4 of the Act a definition of birth certificate. Schedule 3 [4] makes a consequential amendment to section 32A of the Act.

Schedule 3 [5] and [6] make it clear that the Registrar may issue an adopted person's birth record only if authorised to do so under the Adoption Act 2000.

Schedule 4 Amendment of Confiscation of Proceeds of Crime Act 1989 No 90

Schedule 4 [1] amends section 45A of the Act so as to provide that the value of the property by reference to which the amount of a fine is to be calculated is to be determined by the court dealing with the offence under that section for which the fine is to be imposed.

Schedule 4 [2] amends section 74 of the Act so as to provide that a Local Court may deal with offences under section 42O or 45A of the Act where the value of the property concerned is less than the jurisdictional limit of a Local Court (when sitting in its General Division) rather than the current limit of $10,000. Schedule 4 [4] is a transitional provision extending the effect of the proposed amendments to proceedings commenced before the commencement of those amendments. Schedule 4 [3] inserts a definition of jurisdictional limit into section 74.

Schedule 5 Amendment of Crimes Act 1900 No 40

Schedule 5 [1] amends section 154A (2) of the Act so as to include tanks and other military vehicles as "conveyances" for the purposes of the offence in section 154A (1) of the Act (Taking a conveyance without consent of owner).

Schedule 5 [2] inserts proposed section 195 (1A) into the Act so as to provide that it is an offence if a person who, in the company of another person or persons, intentionally or recklessly destroys or damages property belonging to another or to that person and another. The proposed offence is to carry a maximum penalty of:

- (a) imprisonment for 6 years, or
- (b) if the destruction or damage is caused by means of fire or explosives, imprisonment for 11 years.

Schedule 6 Amendment of Criminal Appeal Act 1912 No 16

Schedule 6 [1] and [4] amend sections 5AF and 5DC of the Act so as to extend the rights of appeal under those sections to sentences imposed by the Drug Court in the exercise under section 24 of the Drug Court Act 1998 of the criminal jurisdiction of the District Court or a Local Court. Schedule 6 [2], [3], [5] and [6] make consequential amendments to those sections. Schedule 6 [7] inserts a transitional provision into Schedule 1 to the Act.

Schedule 7 Amendment of Criminal Procedure Act 1986 No 209

Schedule 7 [1] and [2] amend section 170 of the Act so as to make it clear that certain provisions relating to warrants for arrest apply to warrants issued by a Local Court, the District Court or the Supreme Court. Schedule 7 [4]–[9] make consequential amendments to sections 236, 239, 240 and 242 of the Act. Schedule 7 [12] includes a transitional provision that makes it clear that the amendments to section 170 of the Act do not apply to proceedings commenced before the commencement of those amendments.

Schedule 7 [3] amends section 222 of the Act so as to provide that both the filing and service of a subpoena, rather than the filing alone, are to be regulated by rules of court.

Schedule 7 [10] inserts an item into Part 3 of Table 1 to Schedule 1 (Indictable offences triable summarily) to the Act to provide that the common law offence of false imprisonment may be dealt with summarily unless the prosecutor or defendant elects otherwise.

Schedule 7 [11] amends clause 53 of Schedule 2 to the Act so as to make it clear that a warrant for arrest issued before the commencement of section 237 (1A)–(1C), as inserted by the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006, expires 20 years after the warrant was issued.

Schedule 8 Amendment of Crown Prosecutors Act 1986 No 208

Schedule 8 [1] substitutes section 9 of the Act so as:

- (a) to provide that removal from office is a discretionary, rather than mandatory, consequence of a Crown Prosecutor becoming bankrupt or mentally incapacitated or absenting himself or herself from duty, and
- (b) to extend the grounds on which a Crown Prosecutor may be removed from office to include unsatisfactory performance.

Schedule 8 [2] inserts proposed section 9A into the Act so as to enable the Director of Public Prosecutions to suspend a Crown Prosecutor from duty if his or her removal from office is under consideration. Under the proposed section, the Crown Prosecutor's salary may be withheld. If the Crown Prosecutor is removed from office, his or her salary while under suspension may be forfeited to the State.

Schedule 9 Amendment of Drug Court Act 1998 No 150

Schedule 9 substitutes section 20 of the Act so as to allow a Judge of the Supreme Court or District Court (or a NSW Court of equivalent status to the Supreme Court or District Court) to be appointed as a Judge of the Drug Court. Currently only a Judge of the District Court can be so appointed.

Schedule 10 Amendment of Dust Diseases Tribunal Act 1989 No 63

Schedule 10 [1] substitutes section 7 (2) of the Act so as allow a Judge of the Supreme Court or District Court (or a NSW Court of equivalent status to the Supreme Court or District Court) to be appointed as a member of the Dust Diseases Tribunal. Currently only a Judge of the District Court can be so appointed. Schedule 10 [2] and [3] make consequential amendments.

Schedule 11 Amendment of Evidence Act 1995 No 25

Schedule 11 amends section 190 of the Act so as to require a defendant who waives his or her right for proceedings to be conducted in accordance with strict rules of evidence to do so on the advice of an Australian legal practitioner or legal counsel (that is, by a lawyer who is entitled to practise law in Australia) rather than, as is presently the case, of any lawyer.

Schedule 12 Amendment of Evidence Amendment Act 2007 No 46

Schedule 12 [1]–[3] amend proposed sections 128 and 128A of the Evidence Act 1995, and proposed section 33AA of the Coroners Act 1980, so as to achieve consistency of expression within those sections.

Schedule 13 [1] amends section 398 of the Act so as to exclude offences under section 180 of the Act (proceedings for contempt of the Industrial Relations Commission) from the 12-month time limit for commencing proceedings for offences under the Act.

Schedule 13 [2] inserts a note at the end of section 398 of the Act so as to flag that the 6-month time limit under section 179 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 will instead apply to an offence of contempt.

Schedule 14 Amendment of Land and Environment Court Act 1979 No 204

Schedule 14 [5] establishes a new class of jurisdiction for the Land and Environment Court. The proposed class (Class 8) comprises the jurisdiction to be conferred on the Court pursuant to the amendments to the Mining Act 1992 and the Petroleum (Onshore) Act 1991 to be made by proposed Schedules 19 and 22.

Schedule 14 [2] provides that an additional qualification for appointment as a Commissioner is that the appointee is an Australian lawyer. A Commissioner holding such a qualification will be eligible to exercise, under delegation, the Court's jurisdiction under proposed Class 8.

Schedule 14 [9] substitutes section 40 (1) of the Act so as to ensure that the Land and Environment Court continues to have the power to make an order imposing an easement over land as a consequence of earlier proceedings on an appeal under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979 in which it has made a determination to grant or modify development consent. The new provision extends the power to all appeals under that Act, rather than just those under section 97 of that Act, as is currently the case.

Schedule 14 [17] inserts a transitional provision into Schedule 3 to the Act so as to validate certain applications and orders made before the commencement of proposed section 40 (1).

The remaining amendments made by Schedule 14 are consequential on the creation of the new Class 8 jurisdiction.

Schedule 15 Amendment of Local Courts Act 1982 No 164

Schedule 15 inserts proposed section 20A into the Act so as to provide that a Magistrate who vacates office (otherwise than by having been removed from office) may continue to hear and determine matters that he or she had begun to hear before vacating office. The proposed section parallels a similar provision in the (uncommenced) Local Court Act 2007.

Schedule 16 Amendment of Mental Health Act 2007 No 8

Schedule 16 amends the Act so as to remove the function of holding mental health inquiries from Magistrates and confer it on the Mental Health Review Tribunal (the Tribunal).

Schedule 16 [1] and [2] amend definitions of terms in section 4 of the Act so as to replace references to Magistrates in relation to mental health inquiries with references to the Tribunal.

Schedule 16 [3] and [4] amend section 27 of the Act, which sets out the procedures for involuntarily detaining a person in a mental health facility. The amendments require the Tribunal, rather than a Magistrate, to hold a mental health inquiry about a person who has been found to be a mentally ill person by 2 doctors (an assessable person). An assessable person must be brought before the Tribunal as soon as practicable after admission.

Schedule 16 [5], [7], [8], [10]–[12] and [20] amend sections 33, 35 and 77 of the Act so as to replace references to Magistrates in relation to mental health inquiries with references to the Tribunal.

Schedule 16 [6] substitutes section 34 of the Act. The new section requires the Tribunal to hold a mental health inquiry. It enables the Tribunal to require the authorised medical officer of a mental health facility to provide additional information for the purposes of a mental health inquiry, as well as certain medical evidence and reports, at or before the inquiry. The new section also enables persons to be brought before or to appear before mental health inquiries by audio visual link. Primary carers of persons subject to mental health inquiries will be entitled to appear at mental health inquiries. The expressions Australian legal practitioner and Australian lawyer are defined in the Legal Profession Act 2004. Both expressions describe a person who has been formally admitted as a lawyer, the former indicating a person who holds a current certificate that entitles him or her to practise law, and the latter a person who does not.

Schedule 16 [23] amends section 150 of the Act so as to require the Tribunal to be constituted by at least 1 member who is the President or a Deputy President or who is qualified for appointment as a Deputy President for the purpose of conducting a mental health inquiry. Schedule 16 [22] makes a consequential amendment.

Schedule 16 [25] amends section 154 of the Act so as to insert a provision relating to representation before the Tribunal of persons who are subject to mental health inquiries. The amendment re-enacts provisions currently contained in Schedule 2 to the Act (that Schedule is repealed by Schedule 16 [29]).

Schedule 16 [29] omits Schedule 2 to the Act, which contains procedures for the holding of mental health inquiries. Most of the provisions in that Schedule already apply generally to proceedings before the Tribunal and other provisions of that Schedule have been re-enacted by the proposed Act.

Schedule 16 [30]–[35] amend Schedule 3 to the Act so as to replace references to Magistrates with references to the Tribunal in the Statement of Rights given to persons detained in mental health facilities.
