Residential Tenancies Amendment Bill 2024

Explanatory note

This explanatory note relates to this Bill as introduced into Parliament.

Overview of Bill

The objects of this Bill are to amend the Residential Tenancies Act 2010 as follows—

- (a) to ensure residential tenants are offered a convenient and free way to pay rent,
- (b) to ensure prospective tenants cannot be charged for background checks,
- (c) to enable residential tenants to obtain consent to keep animals and to set out the grounds for a landlord to refuse consent,
- (d) to require a landlord to have a valid reason to end a residential tenancy,
- (e) to specify the grounds on which a landlord may terminate a residential tenancy by termination notice,
- (f) to limit rent increases to once every 12 months for all leases,
- (g) to create offences including an offence for a landlord wrongly giving a termination notice,
- (h) to specify when a tenant may vacate premises after a termination notice is given and before the termination date,
- (i) to make the NSW Rental Commissioner a member of the Rental Bond Board.

Outline of provisions

Clause 1 sets out the name, also called the short title, of the proposed Act.

Clause 2 provides for the commencement of the proposed Act.

Schedule 1 Amendment of Residential Tenancies Act 2010 No 42

Schedule 1[5] clarifies that limits on the amounts payable by a prospective tenant before a residential tenancy agreement is entered into apply even if the prospective tenant does not apply for tenancy of the residential premises or does not enter into a residential tenancy agreement for the premises.

Schedule 1[6] requires a landlord or landlord's agent to allow rent to be paid in certain convenient ways that do not incur additional charges. This does not prevent a landlord or landlord's agent offering additional ways to pay the rent.

Schedule 1[7] prevents rent being increased more than once in any 12-month period. Schedule 1[8] makes a consequential amendment.

Schedule 1[9] inserts a proposed division that deals with the keeping of pets on rented residential premises. Schedule 1[2]–[4] make consequential amendments. The proposed division comprises proposed sections 73A–73G. Proposed sections 73B–73F are terms of every residential tenancy agreement.

Proposed section 73A contains definitions used in the proposed division.

Proposed section 73B enables a tenant to keep an animal on the residential premises with the landlord's consent.

Proposed section 73C specifies the requirements for an application by a tenant for the landlord's consent.

Proposed section 73D requires a landlord to respond to the tenant's application within 21 days. If no response is given in that time, consent is taken to have been granted without conditions. The response must specify the following—

- (a) whether consent is given or refused,
- (b) if consent is given—the reasonable conditions to which the consent is subject,
- (c) if consent is refused—the grounds for the refusal.

Proposed section 73E specifies what are reasonable conditions that may be imposed on a consent.

Proposed section 73F specifies the grounds for refusing consent.

Proposed section 73G provides for applications to the Tribunal by a tenant in relation to applications under the proposed division.

Schedule 1[12] removes provisions that allowed for no grounds termination of a residential tenancy agreement by a landlord and includes a proposed subdivision that sets out all the grounds that enable a landlord to give a termination notice. The grounds include the following—

- (a) breach of the tenancy agreement,
- (b) sale of the premises,
- (c) significant renovation or repairs or demolition of the premises,
- (d) the premises are part of an affordable housing scheme, transitional housing program or a scheme for students and the tenant is no longer eligible,
- (e) the premises are required for key worker accommodation,
- (f) the premises will no longer be used as rented residential premises,
- (g) the landlord or the landlord's family will reside at the premises,
- (h) the premises are related to employment and the employment is terminated.

It is an offence for a landlord or landlord's agent to give a termination notice knowing the termination notice or the ground for termination is not valid. Schedule 1[1], [10], [11], [15] and [19] make consequential amendments.

Schedule 1[13] provides for the Tribunal to make a termination order if—

- (a) the landlord has validly given a termination notice, and
- (b) the ground for giving the notice was genuine, and
- (c) the tenant has not vacated the premises as required.

Schedule 1[14] makes special provision for the termination of a tenancy if the tenant has been in continual possession of the premises for a period of 20 years or more.

Schedule 1[16] sets out the circumstances in which a tenant may give vacant possession of residential premises after a termination notice is given without being required to pay additional rent.

Schedule 1[17] and [18] authorise the Tribunal, in relation to a dispute about a termination notice, to make a declaration about the giving of the notice or the grounds for giving the notice. The Tribunal must not make a termination order if it declares the notice was not properly given or the grounds for giving the notice are not genuine.

Schedule 1[21] provides that the NSW Rental Commissioner is a member of the Rental Bond Board. Schedule 1[20] makes a consequential amendment.

Schedule 1[22] includes a number of savings and transitional provisions relating to the amendments made by the proposed Act.

73B	Keeping of pets with landlord’s consent	21
(1)	A tenant who has entered into a residential tenancy agreement for residential premises may keep an animal at the residential premises with the landlord’s consent.	22 23 24
(2)	A tenant does not need the landlord’s consent to keep an assistance animal at residential premises.	25 26
(3)	This section is a term of every residential tenancy agreement.	27
(4)	In this section—	28
	assistance animal has the same meaning as in the Disability Discrimination Act 1992 of the Commonwealth.	29 30
73C	Application for landlord’s consent	31
(1)	An application for consent must be—	32
(a)	made in the approved form, and	33
(b)	made jointly by all co-tenants, and	34
(c)	given to the landlord or the landlord’s agent.	35
(2)	This section is a term of every residential tenancy agreement.	36
73D	Requirement to respond to application	37
(1)	The landlord must give a written response to an application for consent—	38
(a)	to the tenant in the approved form, and	39

(b)	within 21 days after the application is given to the landlord or the landlord's agent.	1 2
(2)	The response must specify whether—	3
(a)	consent is given, or	4
(b)	consent is refused.	5
(3)	The response must also specify—	6
(a)	for a consent given subject to reasonable conditions—the reasonable conditions, or	7 8
(b)	for a consent that is refused—	9
(i)	the grounds under section 73F for the refusal, and	10
(ii)	the reason why the landlord considers the ground applies.	11
(4)	The landlord is taken to have given consent without conditions if the landlord fails to give a response to the tenant in accordance with this section.	12 13
(5)	The reasonable conditions of the consent are taken to be terms of the residential tenancy agreement.	14 15
(6)	This section is a term of every residential tenancy agreement.	16
73E	Reasonable conditions of consent	17
(1)	A landlord may give consent subject to reasonable conditions about keeping the animal at the residential premises.	18 19
(2)	The following are reasonable conditions —	20
(a)	for a type of animal that is not normally kept inside residential premises—a condition, other than an unreasonable condition, preventing the animal being inside the premises,	21 22 23
(b)	for an animal that will be kept inside the residential premises—a condition, other than an unreasonable condition, requiring the tenant, at the end of the tenancy—	24 25 26
(i)	if reasonable for the type of animal and the premises—to have carpets professionally cleaned, and	27 28
(ii)	for a mammal—to have the premises professionally fumigated,	29
(c)	a condition, other than an unreasonable condition, that—	30
(i)	relates only to keeping the animal at the premises, and	31
(ii)	is reasonable in relation to the type of animal and the premises,	32
(d)	a condition prescribed by the regulations as a reasonable condition.	33
(3)	The following are unreasonable conditions —	34
(a)	a condition increasing rent,	35
(b)	a condition increasing the rental bond,	36
(c)	a condition requiring a form of security,	37
(d)	a condition that is not permitted to be included as a term of a residential tenancy agreement,	38 39
	Note— See sections 15 and 19.	40
(e)	a condition prescribed by the regulations as an unreasonable condition.	41
(4)	An unreasonable condition is void and has no effect.	42
(5)	This section is a term of every residential tenancy agreement.	43

73F	Only grounds for refusing to give consent	1
(1)	A landlord may refuse to give consent on one or more of the following grounds only—	2
		3
(a)	keeping the animal at the residential premises would result in an unreasonable number of animals being kept at the premises,	4
		5
(b)	the premises are unsuitable for keeping the animal because of the following—	6
		7
(i)	the fencing is not appropriate,	8
(ii)	there is insufficient open space,	9
(iii)	the nature of the premises means the animal could not be kept at the premises humanely,	10
		11
(c)	keeping the animal at the residential premises is likely to cause damage that would cost more to reasonably repair than the amount of the rental bond for the premises,	12
		13
		14
(d)	the landlord resides at the premises,	15
(e)	keeping the animal at the residential premises would contravene the following—	16
		17
(i)	an Act or other law,	18
(ii)	a local council order,	19
(iii)	for premises forming part of a scheme—a by-law of the scheme that has legal effect,	20
		21
(iv)	for premises forming part of a residential community—a community rule of the residential community,	22
		23
(f)	the tenant has not agreed to a reasonable condition proposed by the landlord.	24
		25
(2)	The regulations may make further provision in relation to grounds in subsection (1), including by clarifying or defining terms used in the grounds.	26
		27
(3)	This section is a term of every residential tenancy agreement.	28
(4)	In this section—	29
	residential community has the same meaning as in the Residential (Land Lease) Communities Act 2013 .	30
		31
	scheme means—	32
(a)	a community scheme, precinct scheme or neighbourhood scheme within the meaning of the Community Land Development Act 2021 , or	33
		34
(b)	a strata scheme within the meaning of the Strata Schemes Management Act 2015 .	35
		36
73G	Application to Tribunal	37
(1)	A tenant who made an application for consent may apply to the Tribunal if—	38
(a)	the landlord has refused to give consent and the tenant believes the grounds specified for the refusal are not applicable, or	39
		40
(b)	the landlord has given consent subject to a condition and the tenant believes the condition is unreasonable.	41
		42
(2)	The Tribunal must dismiss the application if satisfied—	43
(a)	the grounds specified for the refusal are applicable, or	44
(b)	the condition is reasonable.	45

(3)	If the Tribunal is not satisfied the grounds specified for the refusal are applicable, the Tribunal—	1
	(a) must make an order allowing the tenant to keep the animal at the residential premises, and	2
	(b) may make the order subject to reasonable conditions.	3
(4)	The making of the order is taken to be the consent of the landlord for the purposes of this division.	4
(5)	If the Tribunal is satisfied that a condition is an unreasonable condition, the Tribunal must make an order that modifies the consent to remove, vary or substitute the condition so that all conditions of the consent are reasonable conditions.	5
(6)	If the application to the Tribunal relates to more than 1 animal, the Tribunal may make different decisions for different animals.	6
[10]	Section 80 Definitions	7
	Insert in alphabetical order—	8
	short fixed term agreement means a fixed term agreement for a fixed term of 6 months or less.	9
[11]	Section 82 Termination notices	10

	Subdivision 1 Termination notices—specific grounds	15
84	Subdivision sets out grounds for giving termination notice	16
	This subdivision sets out the grounds for a landlord to give a termination notice.	17
	Note— This subdivision applies to both fixed term and periodic tenancies.	18
85	Information and documents to be given with termination notice	19
(1)	The regulations may require supporting documents or information to be given by a landlord when giving a termination notice.	20
(2)	A landlord or landlord’s agent must not give false or misleading supporting documents or information when giving a termination notice.	21
	Maximum penalty—	22
	(a) for an individual—100 penalty units, or	23
	(b) otherwise—650 penalty units.	24
(3)	It is a defence to an offence under subsection (2) if the landlord or landlord’s agent shows that the landlord or agent did not know, and could not reasonably have found out, the document or information was false or misleading.	25
86	Offence for terminating when ground not genuine	26
(1)	A landlord or landlord’s agent must not give a termination notice on a ground that is not genuine.	27

Maximum penalty—	1
(a) for an individual—100 penalty units, or	2
(b) otherwise—650 penalty units.	3
(2) It is a defence to an offence under this section if the landlord or landlord’s agent shows that the landlord or agent did not know, and could not reasonably have found out, the ground for giving the termination notice was not genuine.	4 5 6
87 Offence of entering into new agreement within exclusion period	7
(1) A landlord or landlord’s agent must not contravene a provision of this subdivision specifying that the landlord must not enter into a residential tenancy agreement for residential premises for a specified period (a tenancy exclusion period).	8 9 10 11
Maximum penalty—	12
(a) for an individual—100 penalty units, or	13
(b) otherwise—650 penalty units.	14
(2) The landlord for residential premises must notify the landlord’s agent about a tenancy exclusion period applying to the premises if the landlord knows, or should reasonably know, the agent may lease the premises in contravention of the exclusion period.	15 16 17 18
Maximum penalty—	19
(a) for an individual—100 penalty units, or	20
(b) otherwise—650 penalty units.	21
(3) The landlord is taken to have satisfied subsection (2) if the landlord notifies the landlord’s agent of—	22 23
(a) the date on which the residential tenancy agreement ended, and	24
(b) the ground for ending the residential tenancy agreement.	25
(4) A landlord’s agent does not commit an offence against this section if the agent did not know, and could not reasonably have found out, that the residential premises was subject to a tenancy exclusion period.	26 27 28
(5) A residential tenancy agreement for residential premises entered into during a tenancy exclusion period for the premises is not affected by the tenancy exclusion period.	29 30 31
87A Wrongly terminated tenancy does not invalidate later tenancy	32
A residential tenancy agreement is not affected by an earlier agreement being wrongly terminated under this subdivision.	33 34
87B Subdivision does not apply to long-term tenancy	35
(1) A landlord must not give a termination notice on a ground set out in this subdivision if the tenant has been in continual possession of the same residential premises for a period of 20 years or more.	36 37 38
Note— see section 94	39
(2) This section does not prevent a termination notice being given under section 87C or 87D.	40 41
87C Breach of tenancy agreement	42
(1) A landlord may give a termination notice on the ground the tenant has breached the residential tenancy agreement.	43 44

- (2) The termination date must be at least 14 days after the termination notice is given. 1
2
Note— The termination date may be before the end of the fixed term for a fixed term tenancy agreement. 3 4
- (3) The Tribunal may, on application by the landlord, make a termination order in relation to a termination notice given under this section if the Tribunal is satisfied— 5 6
7
(a) the tenant has breached the residential tenancy agreement, and 8
(b) the breach is, in the circumstances of the case, sufficient to justify termination of the agreement, and 9
10
(c) the termination notice was given in accordance with this section, and 11
(d) the tenant has not vacated the premises as required by the notice. 12
- (4) In considering the circumstances of the case, the Tribunal may consider the following— 13
14
(a) the nature of the breach, 15
(b) previous breaches, 16
(c) steps taken by the tenant to remedy the breach, 17
(d) steps taken by the landlord about the breach, 18
(e) the previous history of the tenancy, 19
(f) another matter the Tribunal considers relevant. 20
- (5) The Tribunal may refuse to make a termination order if it is satisfied that the tenant has remedied the breach. 21
22
- (6) Section 89(2) and 89A do not apply to a termination notice given under this section. 23
24
Note— Section 154E sets out additional matters to be considered if the residential tenancy agreement is a social housing tenancy agreement. 25
26
- 87D Actual sale of premises 27
- (1) A landlord may give a termination notice on the ground— 28
(a) a contract for the sale of the residential premises has been entered into, 29 and 30
(b) the contract requires vacant possession of the premises. 31
- (2) The termination date must be— 32
(a) for a periodic agreement—at least 30 days after the notice is given, or 33
(b) for a fixed term agreement— 34
(i) on or after the end of the agreement, and 35
(ii) at least 30 days after the notice is given. 36
- 87E Proposed sale of premises 37
- (1) A landlord may give a termination notice on the ground— 38
(a) the residential premises will be offered for sale, and 39
(b) the contract for sale will give vacant possession of the premises. 40
- (2) The termination date must be— 41
(a) for a periodic agreement—at least 90 days after the notice is given, or 42
(b) for a short fixed term agreement— 43

(i)	on or after the end of the agreement, and	1
(ii)	at least 60 days after the notice is given, or	2
(c)	for another fixed term agreement—	3
(i)	on or after the end of the agreement, and	4
(ii)	at least 90 days after the notice is given.	5
(3)	The landlord requires the approval of the Secretary to enter into a residential tenancy agreement under this Act for the residential premises within 6 months after the termination date.	6 7 8
(4)	The Secretary must give approval if satisfied—	9
(a)	the landlord made reasonable efforts to sell the premises, and	10
(b)	the premises were not sold because—	11
(i)	no acceptable offer was made, or	12
(ii)	the landlord was otherwise unable to sell the premises, or	13
(iii)	the landlord experienced exceptional changes to life circumstances that made the plan to sell the premises untenable.	14 15
(5)	Subsection (3) ceases to apply if the residential premises are sold.	16
87F	Significant renovations or repairs to premises	17
(1)	A landlord may give a termination notice on the ground—	18
(a)	the residential premises will be subject to works for significant renovations or repairs, and	19 20
(b)	the premises need to be vacant for the works to be carried out properly, and	21 22
(c)	the works are planned to commence within 2 months after the termination date.	23 24
(2)	However, a landlord may not give the termination notice if—	25
(a)	an order of the Tribunal under section 65(2) is in force in relation to the residential premises, or	26 27
(b)	a landlord rectification order under section 65C applies to the premises.	28
(3)	The termination date must be—	29
(a)	for a periodic agreement—at least 90 days after the notice is given, or	30
(b)	for a short fixed term agreement—	31
(i)	on or after the end of the agreement, and	32
(ii)	at least 60 days after the notice is given, or	33
(c)	for another fixed term agreement—	34
(i)	on or after the end of the agreement, and	35
(ii)	at least 90 days after the notice is given.	36
(4)	The landlord requires the approval of the Secretary to enter into a residential tenancy agreement under this Act for the residential premises within 4 weeks after the termination date.	37 38 39
(5)	The Secretary must give approval if satisfied the works were not carried out because of circumstances beyond the control of the landlord.	40 41
87G	Demolition of premises	42
(1)	A landlord may give a termination notice on the ground—	43

- (a) the residential premises will be demolished, and 1
 - (b) the demolition is planned to commence within 2 months after the termination date. 2 3
 - (2) The termination date must be— 4
 - (a) for a periodic agreement—at least 90 days after the notice is given, or 5
 - (b) for a short fixed term agreement— 6
 - (i) on or after the end of the agreement, and 7
 - (ii) at least 60 days after the notice is given, or 8
 - (c) for another fixed term agreement— 9
