2 Commencement

- (1) This Act commences on the date of assent to this Act, except as otherwise provided by this section.
- (2) The amendments made by Schedule 1 commence on the day or days specified in that Schedule in relation to the amendments concerned. If a commencement day is not specified, the amendments commence on the date of assent to this Act.

Schedule 1 Amendments

(Section 3)

1.1 Bail Act 1978 No 161

[1] Section 6 Grant of bail for certain periods

Omit “section 8” from section 6 (g10). Insert instead “section 7D”.

[2] Section 8A Presumption against bail for certain offences

Omit “23 (2), 24 (2)” from section 8A (1) (a) (i) and (iv) wherever occurring.

Insert instead “23 (1A), 23 (2), 23A (2), 23A (3), 24 (2), 24 (2A)”.

[3] Schedule 1 Savings and transitional provisions

Insert as Part 18:

Part 18 Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006

35 Offences committed before commencement of amendments

The amendment made to section 8A by the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006 extends to a grant of bail to a person in respect of an offence committed before the commencement of that amendment, but only if the person is charged with the offence on or after that commencement.

Explanatory note

Item [2] of the proposed amendments to the Bail Act 1978 creates a presumption against bail for the following offences under the Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act 1985:

- (a) the offence relating to enhanced indoor cultivation of prohibited plants for a commercial purpose,
- (b) the offences relating to enhanced indoor cultivation of prohibited plants when a child is exposed to the cultivation process and either a commercial quantity of the plants is involved or the activity is carried out for a commercial purpose,
- (c) the offence relating to manufacture or production of a commercial quantity of a prohibited drug when a child is exposed to the manufacturing process.

Item [3] extends the amendment to the grant of bail in respect of offences committed before the commencement of the amendment in certain circumstances.

Item [1] of the proposed amendments is consequential on the renumbering of provisions of the Drug Court Act 1998 effected by amendments elsewhere in this Schedule.

1.2 Child Protection (Offenders Prohibition Orders) Act 2004 No 46

Section 13 Contravention of orders

Omit section 13 (3).

Explanatory note

The proposed amendment to the Child Protection (Offenders Prohibition Orders) Act 2004 removes the requirement for a police officer who arrests a person suspected of contravening a prohibition order to take the person before an authorised person (within the meaning of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986) to be dealt with according to law, on the basis that other laws (including the Bail Act 1978) render this requirement unnecessary.

1.3 Child Protection (Offenders Registration) Act 2000 No 42

[1] Section 3 Definitions

Omit “section 91D–91G” from paragraph (d) of the definition of Class 2 offence in section 3 (1).

Insert instead “section 91D, 91E, 91F, 91G or 91H”.

[2] Section 3 (1), definition of “Class 2 offence”

Omit “or 578C (2A)” from paragraph (e).

Explanatory note

The proposed amendments to the Child Protection (Offenders Registration) Act 2000 update a cross-reference to an offence under the Crimes Act 1900 relating to the production, dissemination or possession of child pornography.

1.4 Children (Criminal Proceedings) Act 1987 No 55

Section 42

Insert after section 41A:

42 Action may be taken after good behaviour bond has expired

Action may be taken under this Part in relation to a good behaviour bond even if the term of the bond has expired, but in respect only of matters arising during the term of the bond.

Explanatory note

The proposed amendment to the Children (Criminal Proceedings) Act 1987 makes it clear that actions in relation to a failure to comply with a good behaviour bond may be taken even if the bond has expired, if the action relates to matters arising during the term of the bond. This parallels section 100 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999.

1.5 Civil Liability Act 2002 No 22

[1] Section 3B Civil liability excluded from Act

Omit “civil liability in respect of an intentional act that is done with intent to cause injury or death or that is sexual assault or other sexual misconduct” from section 3B (1) (a).

Insert instead “civil liability of a person in respect of an intentional act that is done by the person with intent to cause injury or death or that is sexual assault or other sexual misconduct committed by the person”.

[2] Schedule 1 Savings and transitional provisions

Insert after Part 8:

Part 9 Provisions consequent on enactment of Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006

24 Definition

In this Part, amending Act means the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006.

25 Deemed commencement of, and application of, amendments to section 3B (1) (a)

- (1) The amendment to section 3B (1) (a) made by the amending Act extends to civil liability arising, and any award of damages in respect of such civil liability made, before the commencement of that amendment.
- (2) For the avoidance of doubt, any reference to “civil liability in respect of an intentional act that is done with intent to cause injury or death or that is sexual assault or other sexual misconduct” in section 3B (1) (a) before the commencement of this clause is taken to read (and always to have read) “civil liability of a person in respect of an intentional act that is done by the person with intent to cause injury or death or that is sexual assault or other sexual misconduct committed by the person”.
- (3) The provisions of this Schedule that apply to section 3B (1) (a) apply to that paragraph as if it read (and always had read) as provided by subclause (2).
- (4) This clause does not affect any final determination of legal proceedings made by a court or tribunal before the commencement of this clause.
- (5) However, this clause does apply to legal proceedings (being proceedings that have not been finally determined by a court or tribunal) that relate to the application of Division 6 of Part 2A to an award of damages, even if the proceedings that resulted in that award being made have been finally determined by a court or tribunal.

26 Definition of “offender in custody” in section 26A

- (1) The definition of offender in custody or offender in section 26A (1) includes, and is taken to have always included, the following:
 - (a) an inmate within the meaning of the Correctional Centres Act 1952,

- (b) a prisoner within the meaning of the Prisons Act 1952,
 - (c) a periodic detainee within the meaning of the Periodic Detention of Prisoners Act 1981,
 - (d) an offender for whom a home detention order was made under the Home Detention Act 1996,
 - (e) a person performing community service work under, or attending a place in compliance with the requirements of, a community service order as provided by the Community Service Orders Act 1979, whether or not the person is an offender in custody under any other paragraph of this definition.
- (2) This clause extends to civil liability arising, and any award of damages in respect of such civil liability made, before the commencement of this clause.
 - (3) This clause does not affect any final determination of legal proceedings made by a court or tribunal before the commencement of this clause.
 - (4) However, this clause does apply to legal proceedings (being proceedings that have not been finally determined by a court or tribunal) that relate to the application of Division 6 of Part 2A to an award of damages, even if the proceedings that resulted in that award being made have been finally determined by a court or tribunal.

Explanatory note

Section 3B (1) (a) of the Civil Liability Act 2002 provides that the provisions of that Act (subject to some specified exceptions) do not apply to civil liability in respect of an intentional act that is done with intent to cause injury or death or that is sexual assault or other sexual misconduct. This provision prevents a person who has carried out such an act, when sued by their victim, from benefiting from the provisions of the Civil Liability Act 2002 that aid defendants.

Item [1] of the proposed amendments amends section 3B (1) (a) of the Civil Liability Act 2002 to make it clear that the exclusion in that paragraph applies only in relation to the civil liability of the person who carried out the intentional act to a person who suffered from that act. The amendment will make it clear that the exclusion does not apply in other circumstances, for example, where a victim of such an intentional act sues a third party for negligence for failing to prevent the act. (As a more specific example, the exclusion will not apply where an offender in custody, who has been intentionally injured by another offender in custody, sues the Department of Corrective Services for negligence for failing to prevent the intentional injury.) In such a case, the third party defendant will be able to benefit from the provisions of the Civil Liability Act 2002 that aid defendants.

Item [2] of the proposed amendments inserts savings and transitional provisions (proposed Part 9 (clauses 24–26)) into Schedule 1 to the Civil Liability Act 2002.

Proposed clause 25, as far as possible, gives the amendment in item [1] retrospective application so that it applies as if the change it made commenced at the same time as section 3B (1) (a) commenced.

Part 2A of the Civil Liability Act 2002 contains special provisions relating to offenders in custody. Section 26A of the Act defines the term “offender in custody” or “offender”. The definition includes the following types of person covered by the Crimes (Administration of Sentences) Act 1999: inmates, offenders serving their imprisonment by way of periodic detention, offenders serving their imprisonment by way of home detention and persons performing community service work under, or attending a place in compliance with the requirements of, a community service order.

Proposed clause 26 provides that the definition of offender in custody or offender in section 26A (1) includes, and is taken to always have included, persons who were “inmates”, “prisoners”, “periodic detainees”, “offenders for whom a home detention order was made” or “persons performing community service work under, or attending a place in compliance with the requirements of, a community service order” under legislation that preceded the commencement of the Crimes (Administration of Sentences) Act 1999.

The proposed clauses extend to civil liability arising, and any award of damages in respect of such civil liability made, before the commencement of the clauses. However, those proposed clauses will not affect any final determination of legal proceedings made by a court or tribunal before the commencement of those clauses.

1.6 Civil Procedure Act 2005 No 28

Schedule 3 Rule-making powers

Insert “and other means of obtaining access to information, documents or things” after “inspection” in clause 2.

Explanatory note

The proposed amendment extends the rule-making power in Schedule 3 to the Civil Procedure Act 2005 so as to enable rules to be made in relation to obtaining access to information, documents or things relating to court proceedings.

1.7 Coroners Act 1980 No 27

[1] Section 4A State Coroners and Deputy State Coroners

Omit “3” from section 4A (1). Insert instead “4”.

[2] Part 4, Division 1A

23I Division does not limit other powers

Nothing in this Division limits any power that a police officer or other person has to enter a place or to do any other thing when at the place.

Item [2] inserts proposed Division 1A of Part 4 into the Coroners Act 1980, to extend the powers of police and other persons to investigate a place on the order of a coroner under that Act. The proposed Division details when and how a coronial investigation scene may be established and the powers which may be exercised by police and other persons while at a coronial investigation scene. The search and seizure powers previously conferred on police and other persons are extended by the amendments so as to further facilitate the investigation process.

Item [3] of the proposed amendments removes a redundant provision.

Item [4] enables savings and transitional regulations to be made as a consequence of the proposed amendments.

The amendment to the definition of sentence in section 3 (1) made by the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006 extends to orders referred to in paragraph (ba) of that definition that were made before the commencement of that amendment, but does not affect any appeal proceedings or application under this Act that was finally determined before the commencement of that amendment.

Explanatory note

Item [1] of the proposed amendments to the Crimes (Local Courts Appeal and Review) Act 2001 ensures that the revocation of a good behaviour bond and any order made as a consequence of that revocation is treated as part of the sentence of a person and can be appealed under that Act. Item [4] ensures that the amendment extends to orders made before the commencement of that amendment.

Item [2] extends the provisions of the Crimes (Local Courts Appeal and Review) Act 2001 that allow a person to apply for an annulment of a conviction or sentence in certain circumstances so that an application may also be made in respect of a finding of guilt or an order made as a consequence of a finding of guilt (whether or not the court proceeds to conviction).

Item [3] provides for the making of savings and transitional regulations as a consequence of the proposed amendments.

Note—

The Crimes (Local Courts Appeal and Review) Act 2001 and the Criminal Appeal Act 1912 provide for appeals against sentence, including (in some circumstances) by the prosecutor.

[2] Section 12 Suspended sentences

Omit “except to the extent to which it deals with setting the non-parole period and the balance of the term of the sentence” from section 12 (3).

[3] Section 99 Consequences of revocation of good behaviour bond

Omit section 99 (1) (c) (ii) and (iii). Insert instead:

56 Application of amendments

- (1) The amendments made to sections 12 and 99 by the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006, and section 10A, as inserted by that Act, extend to proceedings commenced (but not concluded) before the commencement of the amendments.
- (2) The amendments made to section 99 by the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006 extend to proceedings in respect of the revocation of a good behaviour bond entered into before the commencement of the amendments, subject to subclause (3).
- (3) The amendments to section 99 do not require a non-parole period in respect of a sentence of imprisonment to be set on the revocation of a good behaviour bond entered into before the commencement of the amendments if the non-parole period was set at the time that the sentence was suspended.

Explanatory note

Item [1] of the proposed amendments to the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 makes it clear that a court has power, on convicting a person, to dispose of the proceedings without imposing any further penalty. It also provides that the disposal of the proceedings without further penalty is to be treated as part of the sentence of the offender, for the purposes of Acts that provide for appeals against sentence. This would facilitate an appeal by the Crown in the circumstances provided for in those Acts.

Items [2]-[4] amend the provisions of the Act relating to the suspension of sentences on condition that the offender enter into a good behaviour bond, and any subsequent revocation of that bond. The proposed amendments remove the requirement that the court set a non-parole period at the time of imposing a suspended sentence. Instead, the setting of a non-parole period (and other functions of the court under Part 4 of the Act) are to be exercised by the court if it revokes the good behaviour bond. The amendments also remove a requirement, that is redundant in relation to suspended sentences, that the court disregard any part of a sentence that has already been served when it considers whether a sentence should be served by way of periodic detention or home detention.

Items [5] and [6] provide for the appointment of additional members of the New South Wales Sentencing Council. The 3 additional members are to be:

- (a) a person with expertise or experience in corrective services, and
- (b) a person with expertise or experience in juvenile justice, and
- (c) a representative of the Attorney General's Department.

Item [8] is a consequential amendment.

Item [7] confers an additional function on the Sentencing Council, being the function of educating the public about sentencing matters.

Items [9] and [10] provide for the transitional application of the amendments and enable the making of savings and transitional regulations as a consequence of the amendments.

1.10 Criminal Appeal Act 1912 No 16

[1] Section 2 Definitions

Insert after paragraph (c) in the definition of Sentence in section 2 (1):

[2] Section 5AF

Omit the section. Insert instead:

5AF Appeals by offenders against sentences imposed by the Drug Court

- (1) Section 5AA applies to and in respect of a person sentenced by the Drug Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Part 2 of the Drug Court Act 1998:
 - (a) in relation to a sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 7D or 7E of that Act, or a final sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 12 of that Act, for an indictable offence, or
 - (b) in relation to a sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 7D or 7E of that Act, or a final sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 12 of that Act, for a summary offence,in the same way as it applies to a person referred to in section 5AA (1).
- (2) For the purposes of this section, a reference in section 5AA to the Supreme Court is to be construed as including a reference to the Drug Court.
- (3) The power of the Court of Criminal Appeal to hear and determine an appeal under this section is to be exercised:
 - (a) in relation to an appeal under subsection (1) (a)—by such 2 or 3 judges of the Supreme Court as the Chief Justice may direct, or
 - (b) in relation to an appeal under subsection (1) (b)—by such single judge of the Supreme Court as the Chief Justice may direct unless the judge, on the application of either party or of his or her own motion, considers that the appeal raises matters of principle or it is otherwise in the interests of justice for the appeal to be dealt with by the full Court of Criminal Appeal and notifies the Chief Justice accordingly, in which case the appeal is to be heard and determined by such 3 or more judges of the Supreme Court as the Chief Justice may direct.

- (4) Despite section 12 (4) of the Drug Court Act 1998, on an appeal against a final sentence imposed by the Drug Court under section 12 of that Act, the Court of Criminal Appeal may pass a more severe sentence than the initial sentence imposed on the relevant offender under section 7A or 7B of that Act.

[3] Section 5D Appeal by Crown against sentence

Insert “or 5DC” after “section 5DA” in section 5D (3).

[4] Section 5DC

Insert after section 5DB:

5DC Appeals by Crown against sentences imposed by Drug Court

- (1) The Attorney General or the Director of Public Prosecutions may appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeal against any sentence imposed by the Drug Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Part 2 of the Drug Court Act 1998:
- (a) in relation to a sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 7D or 7E of that Act, or a final sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 12 of that Act, for an indictable offence, or
 - (b) in relation to a sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 7D or 7E of that Act, or a final sentence determined by the Drug Court under section 12 of that Act, for a summary offence.
- (2) The power of the Court of Criminal Appeal to hear and determine an appeal under this section is to be exercised:
- (a) in relation to an appeal under subsection (1) (a)—by such 3 judges of the Supreme Court as the Chief Justice may direct, or
 - (b) in relation to an appeal under subsection (1) (b)—by such single judge of the Supreme Court as the Chief Justice may direct unless the judge, on the application of either party or of his or her own motion, considers that the appeal raises matters of principle or it is otherwise in the interests of justice for the appeal to be dealt with by the full Court of Criminal Appeal and notifies the Chief Justice accordingly, in which case the appeal is to be heard and determined by such 3 or more judges of the Supreme Court as the Chief Justice may direct.

- (3) Despite section 12 (4) of the Drug Court Act 1998, on an appeal against a final sentence imposed by the Drug Court under section 12 of that Act, the Court of Criminal Appeal on appeal may pass a more severe sentence than the initial sentence imposed on the relevant offender under section 7A or 7B of that Act.
- (4) The Court of Criminal Appeal may, in its discretion, do any one or more of the following:
 - (a) confirm, quash, set aside or vary the sentence,
 - (b) impose such sentence as the Court of Criminal Appeal may seem proper,
 - (c) exercise, by order, any power that the Drug Court might have exercised.
- (5) Any sentence varied or imposed, or any order made, by the Court of Criminal Appeal under this section is to have the same effect and be enforced in the same manner as if it had been imposed by the Drug Court.
- (6) On an appeal under this section against a sentence, new evidence or information may be given with the leave of the Court of Criminal Appeal. However, new evidence or information may be given by the prosecution only in exceptional circumstances.
- (7) Except as provided by subsection (6), nothing in this section limits section 12.

[5] Schedule 1 Savings and transitional provisions

Insert after clause 10:

11 Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006

- (1) The amendments made to this Act by Schedule 1.10 [2]-[4] to the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006 do not apply to any appeal proceedings commenced before the commencement of those amendments.
- (2) The amendment to the definition of Sentence in section 2 (1) made by the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006 extends to orders referred to in paragraph (ca) of that definition that were made before the commencement of that amendment, but does not affect any appeal proceedings that were finally determined before the commencement of that amendment.

Explanatory note

Background

Under the Drug Court Act 1998, a person is referred to the Drug Court by another court and is initially dealt with under current section 7 by the Drug Court convicting and sentencing the person. That sentence, the “initial sentence”, is suspended, to allow participation in the Drug Court program. Under section 11 there is provision for the termination of the offender’s program. After a drug offender’s program is terminated, the Drug Court reconsiders the initial sentence and determines a “final sentence” under section 12.

The Court of Criminal Appeal in R v Toman[2004] NSWCCA 31 found that the Crown may appeal against any sentence imposed on an offender under the Drug Court Act 1998 including an initial sentence imposed by the Drug Court under current section 7. However, an offender only has a right to appeal against a final sentence under section 12 of that Act (see section 5AF of the Criminal Appeal Act 1912).

The Court in R v Toman[2004] NSWCCA 31 also considered section 12 (4) of the Drug Court Act 1998, which provides that a final sentence determined for a drug offender in relation to an offence is not to be greater than the initial sentence imposed on the drug offender in relation to that offence. The Court held that section 12 (4) applied to an appeal court in the same way as to a judge of first instance, so as to limit the final sentence imposed on appeal to one no greater than the initial sentence.

Proposed amendments

Items [2]-[5] of the proposed amendments to the Criminal Appeal Act 1912 revise appeal rights in relation to the Drug Court. The proposed amendments will have the effect that:

- (a) an appeal may not be made, by either the Crown or the offender, against an initial sentence imposed by the Drug Court, and
- (b) where the offender or the Crown appeals against a final sentence imposed on a Drug Court program participant under section 12 of the Drug Court Act 1998, the Court of Criminal Appeal may, if it allows the appeal, impose a greater sentence than the Drug Court participant's initial sentence, despite section 12 (4) of the Drug Court Act 1998, and
- (c) appeals by offenders against sentences imposed by the Drug Court on indictment are to be heard and determined by the Court of Criminal Appeal constituted by 2 or 3 judges, and
- (d) Crown appeals against sentences imposed by the Drug Court on indictment are to be heard and determined by the Court of Criminal Appeal constituted by 3 judges, and
- (e) all appeals (whether by the Crown or the offender) against sentences imposed by the Drug Court in matters dealt with summarily are to be determined before a single judge of the Supreme Court, provided that the judge has the discretion to remit the application to the full court of the Court of Criminal Appeal for determination, either on the judge's own motion or on the application of either party, if the appeal raises matters of principle or it is otherwise in the interests of justice to do so.

Item [1] of the proposed amendments to the Criminal Appeal Act 1912 ensures that the revocation of a good behaviour bond and any order made as a consequence of that revocation is treated as part of the sentence of an offender and can be appealed under that Act. Item [5] includes a savings and transitional provision that ensures that the amendment extends to orders made before the commencement of that amendment.

Existing warrants

Section 237 (1A)-(1C), as inserted by the Crimes and Courts Legislation Amendment Act 2006, does not apply to a warrant issued before the commencement of those provisions.

Explanatory note

The term public officer is defined in section 3 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986. Item [1] of the proposed amendments establishes an evidentiary presumption that a person purporting to be a public officer is acting in an official capacity.

Sections 48, 49, 173 and 174 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 provide that various authorised persons may commence proceedings. Items [2], [3], [12] and [13] make it clear that section 14 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 or authorisation under any other law is sufficient authorisation for the purposes of those sections.

Sections 52 and 177 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 require a court attendance notice issued by a police officer to be served on the accused by a police officer. Items [4] and [14] provide that a court attendance notice issued by a police officer may also be served by a prosecutor.

Sections 52 (4) and 177 (4) of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 require that an endorsement of service be filed with a court when a court attendance notice is issued. It was held in Sharman v Director of Public Prosecutions(2006) NSWSC 135 that a failure to comply with this requirement may render the proceedings invalidly commenced. Items [5] and [15] remove the link between service of a court attendance notice and the jurisdiction of the court. Items [6] and [16] remove redundant provisions relating to when proceedings commence.

At present, prosecution evidence in committal proceedings is given in the form of written statements of witnesses that are tendered in evidence at the proceedings. Section 79 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 requires that a written statement be endorsed in accordance with the rules. Item [7] provides an exemption for children from having to endorse a written statement where the statement is a transcript certified under section 76.

Item [8] gives a Magistrate a discretion to admit prosecution evidence in committal proceedings despite a non-compliance with the requirements of the relevant provisions of the Act or the rules if the Magistrate is satisfied that the non-compliance is trivial in nature or that there are other good reasons to excuse the non-compliance and admit the evidence.

Currently, section 91 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 allows a Magistrate to direct a person who has provided a written statement to attend to give oral evidence at the committal proceedings in exceptional circumstances. Item [9] amends section 91 to clarify that a direction may be given in respect of any written statement that the prosecution intends to tender as evidence in the proceedings. Items [10] and [11] remove any doubt that the tendering of the written statement to the Magistrate, for the purpose of a directions hearing under section 91, prevents the Magistrate from giving such a direction.

Items [17], [18] and [19] enable summary offence proceedings relating to a death that is the subject of a coronial inquest to be commenced within 6 months from when the inquest concludes or no later than 2 years after the commission of the offence, whichever occurs first. Item [23] includes a savings and transitional provision that extends the amendment to summary offences committed before the commencement of that amendment if the existing limitation period has not expired.

Currently there is no provision in the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 that enables a warrant issued under that Act to expire. Items [20] and [21] make provision for the expiration of arrest warrants issued under the Act. Item [23] inserts a savings and transitional provision making it clear that the amendments do not apply to existing warrants.

Item [22] enables savings and transitional regulations to be made as a consequence of the proposed amendments.

1.12 Director of Public Prosecutions Act 1986 No 207

- (5) For the purposes of this section, proceeding includes any application, appeal or other proceeding commenced under Division 1A of Part 3 of the Confiscation of Proceeds of Crime Act 1989.

Explanatory note

The proposed amendment to the Director of Public Prosecutions Act 1986 makes it clear that the Director of Public Prosecutions may take over proceedings relating to the freezing of assets commenced by a police officer under Division 1A of Part 3 of the Confiscation of Proceeds of Crime Act 1989.

1.13 District Court Act 1973 No 9

[1] Section 32 Directions as to sittings of Court in its civil jurisdiction

Insert after section 32 (1):

- (1A) The Chief Judge is to consult with the Attorney General before making a direction under subsection (1) that substantially alters the frequency of sittings at a particular place compared with the previous calendar year.

[2] Section 171 Criminal procedure rules

Insert at the end of the section:

- (5) Despite any other provision of this Act, the provisions of Part 3 of Chapter 4 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 and any rules under that Part apply to proceedings in the Court in its criminal jurisdiction.

[3] Section 173 Directions as to sittings of Court in its criminal jurisdiction

Insert after section 173 (1):

(1A) The Chief Judge is to consult with the Attorney General before making a direction under subsection (1) that substantially alters the frequency of sittings at a particular place compared with the previous calendar year.

Explanatory note

Items [1] and [3] of the proposed amendments provide that the Chief Judge is to consult with the Attorney General before making any substantial alterations to the sitting calendar of the Court in either its civil or criminal jurisdiction.

Item [2] of the proposed amendments makes it clear that the provisions of Part 3 of Chapter 4 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 which relates to subpoenas apply to District Court proceedings so as to achieve consistency in the procedure for dealing with subpoenas between the various jurisdictions.

(2) The Drug Court may deal with a person under this section in relation to an alleged failure to comply with the conditions of the relevant good behaviour bond if, and only if, it is satisfied as to each of the following matters:

(a) that the person is an eligible person,

(b) that the person admits to having failed, and has in fact failed, to comply with the conditions of the bond,

(c) that, having regard to the person's antecedents, it would be appropriate for the person to continue to participate in a program under this Act,

(d) that the person consents to being dealt with under this section,

(e) that the person accepts the conditions imposed by this Act and the conditions that the Drug Court proposes to impose on the person (whether immediately or at some later date) as a consequence of his or her conviction and sentence under this section.

- (3) Subject to subsections (4) and (5), the Drug Court deals with a person under this section in relation to a failure to comply with the conditions of a good behaviour bond by revoking the bond, and convicting and sentencing the person, in accordance with the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999.
- (4) Section 99 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 does not apply to a good behaviour bond that is revoked under subsection (3).
- (5) Sections 44–48, 50, 51 and 51A of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 do not apply to the conviction and sentencing of a person under this section.
- (6) For the purposes of this Act, the sentence of imprisonment in relation to which a good behaviour bond referred to in section 12 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 was entered into under that Act is taken to be the sentence imposed under subsection (3) in relation to the bond.
- (7) On or within 14 days after sentencing the person, the Drug Court:
 - (a) must make an order imposing on the person the conditions that the person has accepted as referred to in subsection (2) (e) (the person's program), and
 - (b) must make an order suspending execution of the sentence for the duration of the person's program (the person's suspension order).
- (8) Nothing in this Act entitles a person to be convicted and sentenced under this section, and no appeal lies against any decision by the Drug Court not to convict or sentence a person under this section.

7D Persons not accepted into program in relation to offence

- (1) This section applies to a person who has been referred to the Drug Court under section 6 but whom the Drug Court has not dealt with under section 7A.

 - (a) that the person has pleaded guilty to the offence (whether before the referring court or the Drug Court) and has been found guilty of the offence,
 - (b) that the person consents to being dealt with under this section.
- (3) The Drug Court deals with a person under this section in relation to an offence by convicting the person and sentencing the person in accordance with the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999.
- (4) If the person does not consent to being dealt with under this section or in such other circumstances as the Drug Court may determine, the Drug Court is to refer the person back to the referring court.

- (5) In the case of a person who has been referred to the Drug Court for 2 or more offences by 2 or more referring courts, the Drug Court may refer the person back to any one of the referring courts to be dealt with:
 - (a) for the offences for which the person was referred by that court, and
 - (b) for such of the other offences as are within the criminal jurisdiction of that court.
- (6) In dealing with a person for an offence referred to in subsection (5) (b), the court to which the person is referred back is taken to be the referring court for the purposes of subsection (7).
- (7) If the Drug Court refers a person back to the referring court, the proceedings against the person are to be continued before the referring court at a time and place specified in the order, as if:
 - (a) the person had not been referred to the Drug Court, and
 - (b) the proceedings had merely been adjourned to the time and place specified in the order.
- (8) A person who is convicted and sentenced by the Drug Court under this section may, at the same time or any later time:
 - (a) be convicted and sentenced for any other offence to which he or she has pleaded guilty (other than an offence referred to in section 5 (2)), whether or not the person has been referred to the Drug Court under section 6 in relation to that other offence, or
 - (b) be dealt with in proceedings under section 98 or 99 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 for sentencing on the revocation of a good behaviour bond, whether or not the person has been referred to the Drug Court under section 7 in relation to the failure to comply with the conditions of the good behaviour bond, or
 - (c) be dealt with under both paragraphs (a) and (b).
- (9) In this section, a reference to the convicting and sentencing of a person is, in the case of a person who is referred to the Drug Court after having been convicted, a reference to the sentencing of the person only.

7E Persons not accepted into program in relation to failure to comply with conditions of good behaviour bond

- (1) This section applies to a person:

- (a) who has been referred to the Drug Court under section 7, or
 - (b) who has been called on by the Drug Court to appear before it under section 98 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999,

Explanatory note

Part 2 of the Drug Court Act 1998 concerns the acceptance of persons into Drug Court programs and the administration of those programs. At present, Division 1 of Part 2 provides for the acceptance of persons into programs during proceedings for offences and Division 1A provides for the acceptance of persons into programs during proceedings for breach of conditions of good behaviour bonds. There is some repetition of provisions in the two Divisions.

Section 7 of the Drug Court Act 1998 provides that when a person is allowed into the Drug Court program, he or she is given an initial sentence of imprisonment that is suspended to allow participation in the Drug Court program. That sentencing is required to be carried out in accordance with the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999. However, that Act provides for certain procedures, such as the setting of a non-parole period, that are not relevant to an initial sentence which is not required to be served. The Drug Court developed a practice of only taking into account the objective features of the offences, together with the offender's plea of guilty and, where appropriate, any time served in custody prior to initial sentence that was referable to the offence. The Court would leave consideration of subjective matters for consideration at final sentencing, after program termination, to minimise delays in offenders entering the Drug Court program. It was also the practice of the Drug Court not to set a non-parole period at initial sentence such that the sentence imposed only reflected the head sentence in relation to the offence. However, in R v Rice[2004] NSWCCA 384, the Court of Criminal Appeal found that section 7 (2A) of the Drug Court Act 1998 and section 44 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 did not permit the Drug Court's practice of not setting a non-parole period at initial sentence.

Item [7] of the proposed amendments consolidates Divisions 1 and 1A into one Division that applies to both proceedings for offences and proceedings for breach of conditions of good behaviour bonds, subject to the following modifications:

- (a) proposed section 7 (1) (a) provides that if the person against whom the proceedings are brought is already a Drug Court participant, the duty of a court to refer proceedings under section 98 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 extends to all courts, not merely prescribed courts (those courts in the Drug Court's catchment area in Western Sydney),
- (b) proposed section 7 (2) provides that the duty of a court, before whom an offender appears under section 98 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 in connection with an alleged failure to comply with the conditions of a good behaviour bond, to consider the person's eligibility for the Drug Court program applies only to proceedings for the breach of bonds imposed under section 12 (Suspended sentences) of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 (at present the duty applies to the breach of the conditions of any good behaviour bond),
- (c) proposed sections 7A (4) and 7B (5) provide that when imposing an initial sentence on a Drug Court program participant, the Drug Court is not obliged to fix a non-parole period under the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 or to comply with other provisions of that Act about commencement dates, release dates and conditions of parole (final sentences, which are the sentences to actually be served, are still required to be full sentences in accordance with the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999),
- (d) proposed sections 7A (8) and 7D (8) restate existing sections 7 (4) and 8 (5) (which provide that the Drug Court may, at the same time as convicting and sentencing a person with respect to an offence for which the person has been referred to the Drug Court, convict and sentence that person for any other offence to which he or she has pleaded guilty) so as to provide that the bringing in of other offences and proceedings may occur at the same time as the first mentioned conviction and sentencing or at any later time,
- (e) proposed section 7E (2) provides that the Drug Court may also deal with proceedings under section 98 or 99 of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 in relation to a sentence on the revocation of good behaviour bonds,
- (f) existing section 8AA (5) is not remade because it is redundant,
- (g) existing sections 8AC (3) (b) and 8AC (6), which require that any sentence imposed on breach of bond proceedings that are finalised after the person enters the program to be ordered to be served cumulatively with the initial sentence, are not remade because they limit discretion in sentencing.

Items [1]-[6] and [8] of the proposed amendments make consequential amendments.

Item [9] provides for the making of savings and transitional regulations consequent on the proposed amendments.

Item [10] provides that the proposed amendments do not apply to any proceedings commenced before the commencement of the amendments and updates certain references in a regulation.

Item [1] of the proposed amendments to the Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act 1985 creates a new offence in relation to possessing tablet presses. It will be a defence if the tablet press is being used in connection with a lawful activity or if the person concerned has a reasonable excuse for possessing it. The new offence will have a maximum penalty of $2,200 or imprisonment for 2 years, or both.

Items [4] and [5] create new aggravated versions of existing offences under the Act of allowing the use of premises as drug premises or organising drug premises. The new offences provide for a higher penalty for such activities if the person who allows the premises to be used as drug premises or organises the drug premises knows that a child has access to the premises and, as a consequence of that access, the child is exposed to prohibited drugs or prohibited plants, a drug supply process or equipment capable of being used to administer prohibited drugs or plants. 45 Special provisions for former participants in NSW Police Witness Protection Plan

Despite section 17, the Supreme Court is not required to be satisfied of the matters referred to in section 17 (b), (c) and (d) before making a witness protection order if satisfied that:

- (a) the person named in the application as a witness is a former participant in the New South Wales Police Witness Protection Plan in force before the commencement of section 5 or a person who, because of his or her relationship with, or association with, a former participant in that Plan, may require protection or other assistance under this Act, and
- (b) the order is sought for the purpose of confirming an identity established while that Plan was in operation.

Explanatory note

The proposed amendment to the Witness Protection Act 1995 allows the Supreme Court to make an order authorising a new entry in a register of births, deaths or marriages or the issue of identity documents in respect of a former participant in the New South Wales Police Witness Protection Plan (or a relative or associate of such a participant) without the Commissioner of Police having to satisfy the Supreme Court that the person concerned is a party to a current memorandum of understanding with the Commissioner of Police. The New South Wales Police Witness Protection Plan was the witness protection program operated by police before the commencement of the Witness Protection Act 1995.
