Part 2 Objects of Act in relation to domestic and personal violence

9 Objects of Act in relation to domestic violence

- (1) The objects of this Act in relation to domestic violence are:
 - (a) to ensure the safety and protection of all persons, including children, who experience or witness domestic violence, and
 - (b) to reduce and prevent violence by a person against another person where a domestic relationship exists between those persons, and
 - (c) to enact provisions that are consistent with certain principles underlying the

Declaration on the Elimination of Violence against Women, and

(d) to enact provisions that are consistent with the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.

(2) This Act aims to achieve those objects by:

(a) empowering courts to make apprehended domestic violence orders to protect people from domestic violence, intimidation (including harassment) and stalking, and

(b) ensuring that access to courts is as safe, speedy, inexpensive and simple as is consistent with justice.

(3) In enacting this Act, Parliament recognises:

(a) that domestic violence, in all its forms, is unacceptable behaviour, and

(b) that domestic violence is predominantly perpetrated by men against women and children, and

(c) that domestic violence occurs in all sectors of the community, and

(d) that domestic violence extends beyond physical violence and may involve the exploitation of power imbalances and patterns of abuse over many years, and

(e) that domestic violence occurs in traditional and non-traditional settings, and

(f) the particularly vulnerable position of children who are exposed to domestic violence as victims or witnesses, and the impact that such exposure can have on their current and future physical, psychological and emotional well-being, and

(g) that domestic violence is best addressed through a co-ordinated legal and social response of assistance and prevention of violence and, in certain cases, may be the subject of appropriate intervention by the court.

(4) A court that, or person who, exercises any power conferred by or under this Act in relation to domestic violence must be guided in the exercise of that power by the objects referred to in this section.

10 Object of Act in relation to personal violence

(1) The object of this Act in relation to personal violence is to ensure the safety and protection of all persons who experience personal violence outside a domestic relationship.

(2) This Act aims to achieve that object by:

(a) empowering courts to make apprehended personal violence orders in appropriate circumstances to protect people from violence, intimidation (including harassment) and stalking, and

- (b) ensuring that access to courts is as safe, speedy, inexpensive and simple as is consistent with justice, and
- (c) ensuring that other avenues of dispute resolution are encouraged where appropriate.

Part 3 Domestic violence and other offences

11 Meaning of “domestic violence offence”

In this Act, domestic violence offence means a personal violence offence committed by a person against another person with whom the person who commits the offence has or has had a domestic relationship.

12 Recording of domestic violence offences

- (1) The charge in respect of an offence may indicate that the offence is a domestic violence offence.
- (2) If a person pleads guilty to an offence or is found guilty of an offence and the court is satisfied that the offence was a domestic violence offence, the court is to direct that the offence be recorded on the person’s criminal record as a domestic violence offence.
- (3) If the court makes a direction under this section to record an offence as a domestic violence offence, the prosecution may make an application to the court requesting that the court direct that specified offences in respect of which the person has previously pleaded guilty or been found guilty be recorded as domestic violence offences.
- (4) Any such application is to include sufficient information in support of the request to enable the court to make a decision as to whether such a recording is appropriate.
- (5) The court may require the prosecutor to provide further information to enable it to make a determination as to whether to direct a recording to be made under this section.
- (6) If satisfied after considering an application under subsection (3) that an offence referred to in the application was a domestic violence offence, the court is to direct that the offence be recorded on the criminal record of the person concerned as a domestic violence offence.
- (7) A victim of an offence is not compellable in any proceedings before the court to determine whether the court should make a direction under this section to record an offence as a domestic violence offence.

- (8) A court that directs a recording to be made under this section or is required to take such a recording into account may, on application or on its own motion, correct the recording if it considers that there is an error in the recording.
- (9) Regulations may be made for or with respect to the recording of offences under this section, including the manner in which and time within which such recordings are to be made.

Note—

An indication in the charge for an offence that a person has committed a domestic violence offence will be relevant in bail proceedings. The recording on a person's criminal record that an offence is a domestic violence offence will be relevant to sections 7 and 8 of this Act, where previous behaviour constituting a domestic violence offence is taken into account for the purpose of determining whether a person's behaviour amounts to intimidation or stalking, and to sections 27 and 49 of this Act, which require police to make applications for apprehended domestic violence orders in situations where the person in question has already committed a domestic violence offence. Section 21A of the Crimes (Sentencing Procedure) Act 1999 provides that a record of previous convictions is an aggravating factor to be taken into account when determining the appropriate sentence for an offence.

13 Stalking or intimidation with intent to cause fear of physical or mental harm

- (1) A person who stalks or intimidates another person with the intention of causing the other person to fear physical or mental harm is guilty of an offence.

Maximum penalty: Imprisonment for 5 years or 50 penalty units, or both.

- (2) For the purposes of this section, causing a person to fear physical or mental harm includes causing the person to fear physical or mental harm to another person with whom he or she has a domestic relationship.
- (3) For the purposes of this section, a person intends to cause fear of physical or mental harm if he or she knows that the conduct is likely to cause fear in the other person.
- (4) For the purposes of this section, the prosecution is not required to prove that the person alleged to have been stalked or intimidated actually feared physical or mental harm.
- (5) A person who attempts to commit an offence against subsection (1) is guilty of an offence against that subsection and is punishable as if the offence attempted had been committed.

14 Offence of contravening apprehended violence order

- (1) A person who knowingly contravenes a prohibition or restriction specified in an apprehended violence order made against the person is guilty of an offence.

Maximum penalty: Imprisonment for 2 years or 50 penalty units, or both.

- (2) A person is not guilty of an offence against subsection (1) unless:

- (a) in the case of an apprehended violence order made by a court, the person was served with a copy of the order or was present in court when the order was made, or
 - (b) in any other case, the person was served with a copy of the apprehended violence order.
- (3) A person is not guilty of an offence against subsection (1) if the contravention of the prohibition or restriction concerned:
- (a) was necessary in order to attend mediation under section 21, or
 - (b) was done in compliance with the terms of a property recovery order.
- (4) Unless the court otherwise orders, a person who is convicted of an offence against subsection (1) must be sentenced to a term of imprisonment if the act constituting the offence was an act of violence against a person.
- (5) Subsection (4) does not apply if the person convicted was under 18 years of age at the time of the alleged offence.
- (6) Where the court determines not to impose a sentence of imprisonment, it must give its reasons for not doing so.
- (7) A person is not guilty of an offence of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of an offence against subsection (1) if the person is a protected person under the order concerned.
- (8) A police officer is to make a written record of the reasons for:
- (a) a decision by the police officer not to initiate criminal proceedings against a person for an alleged contravention of subsection (1) or (9) (whether or not the person is arrested), or
 - (b) a decision by the police officer not to proceed with criminal proceedings against a person for an alleged contravention of subsection (1) or (9),
- if the police officer or another police officer suspects on reasonable grounds that the person has committed an offence against either subsection or if an alleged contravention of either subsection by the person has been reported to the police officer or another police officer.
- (9) A person who attempts to commit an offence against subsection (1) is guilty of an offence against that subsection and is punishable as if the offence attempted had been committed.

Note—

The Law Enforcement \(Powers and Responsibilities\) Act 2002 contains powers of police officers in relation to suspected offences, including a power to arrest a person, without warrant, if the police officer suspects on reasonable grounds that a person has committed an offence.

Part 4 Apprehended domestic violence orders

15 Application for making of apprehended domestic violence order by court

- (1) An application may be made in accordance with Part 10 for an apprehended domestic violence order for the protection of:
 - (a) a person against another person with whom he or she has or has had a domestic relationship, or
 - (b) two or more persons against another person with whom at least one of those persons has or has had a domestic relationship.
- (2) An application is to be treated as an application for an apprehended personal violence order if none of the persons for whose protection the order would be made has or has had a domestic relationship with the person against whom it is sought.
- (3) Subsection (2) does not apply to a provisional order that is made by a senior police officer and treated as an application for an order pursuant to section 29.

16 Court may make apprehended domestic violence order

- (1) A court may, on application, make an apprehended domestic violence order if it is satisfied on the balance of probabilities that a person who has or has had a domestic relationship with another person has reasonable grounds to fear and in fact fears:
 - (a) the commission by the other person of a personal violence offence against the person, or
 - (b) the engagement of the other person in conduct in which the other person:
 - (i) intimidates the person or a person with whom the person has a domestic relationship, or
 - (ii) stalks the person,being conduct that, in the opinion of the court, is sufficient to warrant the making of the order.
- (2) Despite subsection (1), it is not necessary for the court to be satisfied that the person for whose protection the order would be made in fact fears that such an offence will be committed, or that such conduct will be engaged in, if:
 - (a) the person is a child, or
 - (b) the person is, in the opinion of the court, suffering from an appreciably below average general intelligence function, or

- (c) in the opinion of the court:
 - (i) the person has been subjected at any time to conduct by the defendant amounting to a personal violence offence, and
 - (ii) there is a reasonable likelihood that the defendant may commit a personal violence offence against the person, and
 - (iii) the making of the order is necessary in the circumstances to protect the person from further violence.
- (3) For the purposes of this section, conduct may amount to intimidation of a person even though:
 - (a) it does not involve actual or threatened violence to the person, or
 - (b) it consists only of actual or threatened damage to property belonging to, in the possession of or used by the person.

Note—

Part 8 provides for the matters that may be included in orders. Part 9 contains additional provisions relevant to the making of orders.

17 Matters to be considered by court

- (1) In deciding whether or not to make an apprehended domestic violence order, the court must consider the safety and protection of the protected person and any child directly or indirectly affected by the conduct of the defendant alleged in the application for the order.
- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), in deciding whether or not to make an apprehended domestic violence order, the court is to consider:
 - (a) in the case of an order that would prohibit or restrict access to the defendant's residence—the effects and consequences on the safety and protection of the protected person and any children living or ordinarily living at the residence if an order prohibiting or restricting access to the residence is not made, and
 - (b) any hardship that may be caused by making or not making the order, particularly to the protected person and any children, and
 - (c) the accommodation needs of all relevant parties, in particular the protected person and any children, and
 - (d) any other relevant matter.
- (3) When making an apprehended domestic violence order, the court is to ensure that the order imposes only those prohibitions and restrictions on the defendant that, in the opinion of the court, are necessary for the safety and protection of the protected person, and any child directly or indirectly affected by the conduct of the defendant alleged in the application for the order, and the protected person's property.

- (4) If an application is made for an apprehended domestic violence order that prohibits or restricts access by the defendant to any premises or place and the court hearing proceedings in respect of the application decides to make an order without the prohibition or restriction sought, the court is to give reasons for that decision.

Part 5 Apprehended personal violence orders

18 Application for making of apprehended personal violence order by court

- (1) An application may be made in accordance with Part 10 for an apprehended personal violence order for the protection of one or more persons against another person.
- (2) An application is to be treated as an application for an apprehended domestic violence order if one or more of the persons for whose protection the order would be made has or has had a domestic relationship with the person against whom it is sought.

19 Court may make apprehended personal violence order

- (1) A court may, on application, make an apprehended personal violence order if it is satisfied on the balance of probabilities that a person has reasonable grounds to fear and in fact fears:
- (a) the commission by the other person of a personal violence offence against the person, or
 - (b) the engagement of the other person in conduct in which the other person:
 - (i) intimidates the person, or
 - (ii) stalks the person,being conduct that, in the opinion of the court, is sufficient to warrant the making of the order.
- (2) Despite subsection (1), it is not necessary for the court to be satisfied that the person for whose protection the order would be made in fact fears that such an offence will be committed, or that such conduct will be engaged in, if:
- (a) the person is a child, or
 - (b) the person is, in the opinion of the court, suffering from an appreciably below average general intelligence function.
- (3) For the purposes of this section, conduct may amount to intimidation of a person even though:

- (a) it does not involve actual or threatened violence to the person, or
- (b) it consists only of actual or threatened damage to property belonging to, in the possession of or used by the person.

Note—

Part 8 provides for the matters that may be included in orders. Part 9 contains additional provisions relevant to the making of orders.

20 Matters to be considered by court

- (1) In deciding whether or not to make an apprehended personal violence order, the court must consider the safety and protection of the person seeking the order and any child directly or indirectly affected by the conduct of the defendant alleged in the application for the order.
- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), in deciding whether or not to make an apprehended personal violence order, the court is to consider:
 - (a) in the case of an order that would prohibit or restrict access to the defendant's residence—the effects and consequences on the safety and protection of the protected person and any children living or ordinarily living at the residence if an order prohibiting or restricting access to the residence is not made, and
 - (b) any hardship that may be caused by making or not making the order, particularly to the protected person and any children, and
 - (c) the accommodation needs of all relevant parties, in particular the protected person and any children, and
 - (d) any other relevant matter.
- (3) When making an apprehended personal violence order, the court is to ensure that the order imposes only those prohibitions and restrictions on the defendant that, in the opinion of the court, are necessary for the safety and protection of the protected person, and any child directly or indirectly affected by the conduct of the defendant alleged in the application for the order, and the protected person's property.
- (4) If an application is made for an apprehended personal violence order that prohibits or restricts access by the defendant to any premises or place and the court hearing proceedings in respect of the application decides to make an order without the prohibition or restriction sought, the court is to give reasons for that decision.

21 Referral of matters to mediation

- (1) If an application for an apprehended personal violence order is made to a court, the court:

- (a) when considering whether to make the order—is to refer the protected person and the defendant for mediation under the Community Justice Centres Act 1983 unless it is satisfied that there is good reason not to do so, and
 - (b) at any other time—may refer the protected person and the defendant for mediation under that Act.
- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), in determining whether there is good reason not to refer a matter to mediation, the court is to consider whether:
- (a) there has been a history of physical violence to the protected person by the defendant, or
 - (b) the protected person has been subjected to conduct by the defendant amounting to a personal violence offence, or
 - (c) the protected person has been subjected to conduct by the defendant amounting to an offence under section 13, or
 - (d) the defendant has engaged in conduct amounting to harassment relating to the protected person's race, religion, homosexuality, transgender status, HIV/AIDS infection or disability, or
 - (e) there has been a previous attempt at mediation in relation to the same matter and the attempt was not successful.
- (2A) The existence of any one or more of the factors referred to in subsection (2) does not prevent a court from referring a matter to mediation.
- (3) Nothing in this section affects section 24 of the Community Justice Centres Act 1983.

Note—

Section 24 of the Community Justice Centres Act 1983 enables the Director of Community Justice Centres to decline to consent to the acceptance of a dispute for mediation and enables the Director or a mediator to terminate a mediation session at any time.

- (4) The Director of Community Justice Centres is to provide a written report on the outcome of the mediation or attempted mediation to the court that referred the matter for mediation.
- (5) On receiving a report under subsection (4), the court is to take such action in accordance with this Act as it considers appropriate in relation to the matter concerned and in doing so may take into account the contents of the report.
- (6) If a matter is referred to mediation under this section without an order having been made, any proceedings in relation to the application are taken to have been stayed until a report is provided under subsection (4).
- (7) If the Director of Community Justice Centres provides a report under subsection (4) or a mediator conducts a mediation of a matter referred under this section, the Director or the mediator is taken, for the purposes of the provisions of the Community Justice Centres Act 1983, to be exercising those functions for the purpose of executing that Act.

Part 6 Interim court orders

22 Interim court orders

- (1) A court may, on application made in accordance with Part 10, make an interim apprehended domestic violence order or an interim apprehended personal violence order if it appears to the court that it is necessary or appropriate to do so in the circumstances.
- (2) An interim apprehended domestic violence order or an interim apprehended personal violence order made on application under this Part is referred to in this Act as an interim court order.
- (3) An interim court order may be made by a court whether or not:
 - (a) the defendant is present at the proceedings, or
 - (b) the defendant has been given notice of the proceedings.
- (4) A court may, in deciding whether to make an interim court order, admit affidavit evidence or a written statement by a police officer that is tendered on behalf of the person for whose protection the order would be made if:
 - (a) the person is unable, for any good reason, to be present at the proceedings, and
 - (b) the court is satisfied that the matter requires urgent consideration by the court.
- (5) If an interim court order is made by a court:
 - (a) the court is to require the defendant to appear at a further hearing of the matter by the court as soon as practicable after the interim court order is made, and
 - (b) the court may, at the further hearing or an adjourned further hearing, make a final apprehended violence order in the same terms as the interim court order or with variations or may revoke the interim court order (whether or not the defendant appears at any such further hearing).
- (6) An interim court order has, while it remains in force, the same effect as a final apprehended violence order.

23 Interim court orders made by Registrar with consent

- (1) A Registrar may, on application, make an interim apprehended domestic violence order or an interim apprehended personal violence order if satisfied that the protected person and the defendant consent to the making of the order.

- (2) Section 78 (Orders made with consent of parties) applies in relation to the making of an order by a Registrar under this section in the same way as it applies to the making of an interim court order by a court.
- (3) If an interim court order is made by a Registrar:
 - (a) the Registrar is to require the defendant to appear at a further hearing of the matter before a court as soon as practicable after the interim court order is made, and
 - (b) the court may, at the further hearing or an adjourned hearing, make a final apprehended violence order in the same terms as the interim court order or with variations or may revoke the interim court order.
- (4) An interim court order made by a Registrar of a court under this section is taken to have been made by the court and has effect accordingly.
- (5) Section 76 applies to a Registrar who makes an interim court order under this section.

24 Interim court order ceases when final court order made or served

- (1) An interim court order remains in force until:
 - (a) it is revoked, or
 - (b) it ceases to have effect under subsection (2), or
 - (c) the application for a final apprehended violence order is withdrawn or dismissed, whichever first occurs.
- (2) If a final apprehended violence order is made in respect of an interim court order (whether with or without variation), the interim court order ceases to have effect:
 - (a) in a case where the defendant is present at court—when the final apprehended violence order is made, or
 - (b) in any other case—when the defendant is served in accordance with this Act with a copy of the final apprehended violence order.

24A Referral of matters to mediation

Section 21 applies in relation to an interim apprehended personal violence order in the same way as it applies in relation to an apprehended personal violence order.

Part 7 Provisional orders

25 Application by telephone, facsimile or other communication device

- (1) A police officer may apply by telephone, facsimile or other communication device:
 - (a) to an authorised officer or senior police officer for an interim apprehended domestic violence order, or
 - (b) to an authorised officer for an interim apprehended personal violence order.
- (2) In this Act:
 - (a) an interim apprehended domestic violence order or an interim apprehended personal violence order made on an application under this section is referred to as a provisional order, and
 - (b) the police officer who applies for a provisional order is referred to as the applicant officer, and
 - (c) the authorised officer or senior police officer who makes a provisional order is referred to as the issuing officer.
- (3) An application for a provisional order:
 - (a) may be made at the request of the protected person or on the applicant officer's own initiative, and
 - (b) may be transmitted to the authorised officer or senior police officer by another person on behalf of the applicant officer if it is not practicable for the application to be made by the applicant officer by telephone, facsimile or other communication device directly to the authorised officer or senior police officer.

26 When application may be made

- (1) An application may be made by telephone, facsimile or other communication device if:
 - (a) an incident occurs involving the person against whom the provisional order is sought to be made and the person who would be protected by the provisional order, and
 - (b) a police officer has good reason to believe a provisional order needs to be made immediately to ensure the safety and protection of the person who would be protected by the provisional order or to prevent substantial damage to any property of that person.
- (2) An application may be made at any time and whether or not the court is sitting.

27 Obligation to apply for provisional order in certain circumstances

- (1) An application must be made for a provisional order if:
 - (a) a police officer investigating the incident concerned suspects or believes that:
 - (i) a domestic violence offence or an offence against section 13 has recently been or is being committed, or is imminent, or is likely to be committed, against the person for whose protection an order would be made, or
 - (ii) an offence under section 227 (Child and young person abuse) of the Children and Young Persons (Care and Protection) Act 1998 (but only in relation to a child) has recently been or is being committed, or is imminent, or is likely to be committed, against the person for whose protection an order would be made, or
 - (iii) proceedings have been commenced against a person for an offence referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii) committed against the person for whose protection an order would be made, and
 - (b) the police officer has good reason to believe an order needs to be made immediately to ensure the safety and protection of the person who would be protected by the order or to prevent substantial damage to any property of that person.
- (2) The application may be made by any police officer.
- (3) An application need not be made in the circumstances referred to in subsection (1) if an apprehended violence order is already in force against the defendant for the protection of the person concerned.
- (4) An application need not be made in the circumstances referred to in subsection (1) if the person for whose protection an order would be made is at least 16 years of age at the time of the incident and a police officer investigating the incident believes:
 - (a) that the person intends to make an application for an apprehended violence order, or
 - (b) that there is good reason not to make the application.
- (5) However, if the police officer investigating the incident believes that there is good reason not to make the application, the police officer must make a written record of the reason.
- (6) For the purposes of subsection (4), the reluctance of the person to make an application does not, on its own, constitute a good reason for a police officer not to make an application if the police officer reasonably believes that:

- (a) the person has been the victim of violence or there is a significant threat of violence to the person, or
- (b) the person has an intellectual disability and has no guardian.

28 Making of provisional order by authorised officer

- (1) An authorised officer to whom an application is made for a provisional order may, if satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for doing so, make the provisional order.
- (2) Section 21 (Referral of matters to mediation) applies to an authorised officer when considering whether to make a provisional order that is an interim personal apprehended violence order or after making such an order in the same way as it applies to a court.
- (3) Section 81 applies to the making of a provisional order by an authorised officer in the same way as that section applies to other orders.

28A Making of provisional order by senior police officer

- (1) A senior police officer to whom an application is made for a provisional order may, if satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for doing so, make the provisional order.
- (2) However, a senior police officer may not make a provisional order in circumstances where he or she is the applicant officer.

29 Provisional order taken to be application for court order

- (1) A provisional order is taken, for the purposes of this Act, to be an application for an order under Part 10.
- (2) The provisional order is to contain a direction for the appearance of the defendant at a hearing of the application by an appropriate court on a date specified in the order by the issuing officer.
- (3) The specified date must be:
 - (a) the next date on which the matter can be listed on a domestic violence list at the appropriate court, and
 - (b) in any case, a date that is not more than 28 days after the making of the provisional order.

30 Recording of provisional order

- (1) The issuing officer who makes a provisional order is to inform the applicant of the terms of the order and the date and time when the order was made.
- (2) The applicant is to complete a form of order in the terms so indicated and write on it the name of the issuing officer, the date and time when the order was made and the date of the hearing of the application.
- (3) When the form of order is completed, it is taken to be a provisional order.
- (4) An issuing officer may, instead of proceeding under subsection (1), furnish the provisional order to the applicant.
- (5) An applicant who is furnished with a provisional order under subsection (4) is to include in the order the date of the hearing of the application.

31 Service

- (1) A provisional order is to be served personally on the defendant by a police officer as soon as practicable after it is made.
- (2) A provisional order is to be served personally on the protected person by a police officer as soon as practicable after it is made unless it is impractical to do so.

32 Duration

- (1) A provisional order remains in force until midnight on the twenty-eighth day after the order is made, unless it is sooner revoked or ceases to have effect under subsection (2) or the application for a final apprehended violence order is withdrawn or dismissed.
- (2) If a court makes an apprehended violence order against a defendant for the protection of a person protected by a provisional order, the provisional order ceases to have effect:
 - (a) in a case where the defendant is present at court—when the court order is made, or
 - (b) in any other case—when the defendant is served in accordance with this Act with a copy of the court order.

33 Variation or revocation of provisional order on application of police officer

- (1) A provisional order made by an authorised officer may be varied or revoked by:
 - (a) the authorised officer who made it or any other authorised officer, or
 - (b) any court dealing with an application for an apprehended violence order against the same defendant.

- (2) A provisional order may be varied:
 - (a) by amending or deleting any prohibitions or restrictions specified in the order, or
 - (b) by specifying additional prohibitions or restrictions in the order.
- (3) An application for a variation or the revocation of a provisional order under this section may be made only by a police officer.
- (4) If there is more than one protected person under a provisional order, the order may be varied or revoked in its application to all of the protected persons or in relation to any one or more of the protected persons.
- (5) Notice of the variation or revocation is to be served on the defendant, each protected person affected by the variation or revocation and the Commissioner of Police.
- (6) The duration of a provisional order may not be varied under this section.
- (7) This section does not apply to the variation or revocation of a provisional order in accordance with section 33A.

33A Variation or revocation of provisional order on application of defendant

- (1) A provisional order made by a senior police officer may be varied or revoked on the application of the defendant by any court that deals, or is to deal, with an application for an apprehended violence order against that defendant.
- (2) Despite subsection (1), an application for variation or revocation of a provisional order must be made by a police officer if the protected person or one of the protected persons under the order is a child at the time of the application.
- (3) Sections 73 (1), (2), (4) and (6), 74 (1) and (2), 76 (2), (4) and (5) and 77 (2)–(8) apply to the variation or revocation of a provisional order under this section in the same way as they apply to the variation or revocation of a final apprehended violence order or interim court order.
- (4) In addition to the requirements of section 73 (4), a provisional order is not to be varied or revoked on the application of the defendant under this section unless notice of the application has been served on the Local Area Commander of Police.
- (5) The applicant officer or another police officer is entitled to appear in proceedings for a variation or revocation of the provisional order under this section.

34 Purported renewal or continuance

- (1) A provisional order may not be renewed and a further provisional order may not be made in respect of the same incident.

- (2) If a court purports to renew or continue a provisional order:
 - (a) the order is taken to be an interim court order made by the court at that time, and
 - (b) further service of the order is not required.

34A Defects in interim apprehended domestic violence orders

- (1) This section applies if a senior police officer has, in good faith, purported to make a provisional order as an interim apprehended domestic violence order but none of the persons for whose protection the order was made has or has had a domestic relationship with the person against whom the order was sought.
- (2) If a provisional order has such a defect, no action lies against any police officer or any other person merely because of that defect in respect of anything done or omitted to be done by the police officer or other person in good faith in reliance on the provisional order or any ancillary property recovery order.

Part 8 Content and effect of apprehended violence orders

35 Prohibitions and restrictions imposed by apprehended violence orders

- (1) When making an apprehended violence order, a court may impose such prohibitions or restrictions on the behaviour of the defendant as appear necessary or desirable to the court and, in particular, to ensure the safety and protection of the person in need of protection and any children from domestic or personal violence.

Section 17 of the Weapons Prohibition Act 1998 provides for the automatic suspension of a permit under that Act on the making of an interim apprehended violence order against the permit holder and section 18 of that Act provides for the automatic revocation of a permit on the making of a final apprehended violence order against the permit holder. On the suspension or revocation of such licences or permits, the relevant firearms or weapons must be surrendered to the police and may be seized by the police.

Note—

Section 79 of the Residential Tenancies Act 2010 terminates the tenancy of a tenant or co-tenant under a residential tenancy agreement if a final apprehended violence order is made that prohibits the tenant or co-tenant from having access to the residential premises under the agreement.

36 Apprehended violence order prohibits stalking, intimidation etc

- (5) A property recovery order in respect of personal property left by the defendant on premises may not be made in the absence of the defendant.

- (7) The onus of proof of reasonable excuse in proceedings for an offence against subsection (6) lies on the person accused of the offence.

Part 9 Additional measures for support and protection of children and others in proceedings

38 Apprehended violence orders made by court or authorised officer can also protect persons with whom person seeking protection has a domestic relationship

- (1) The power of a court or an issuing officer under this Act to make an apprehended violence order for the protection of a person extends to authorise the making of such an order for the protection of a person with whom the person for whose protection the order was sought has a domestic relationship.
- (2) If the court makes an apprehended domestic violence order, or the court or issuing officer makes an interim apprehended domestic violence order, for the protection of a person of or above 18 years of age, the court or issuing officer must include as a protected person under the order any child with whom the person of or above 18 years of age has a domestic relationship.
- (3) A court or issuing officer is not required to comply with subsection (2) if satisfied that there are good reasons for not doing so. However, in that case the court or issuing officer is to give the reasons for not doing so.
- (4) For the avoidance of doubt, subsections (2) and (3) are subject to sections 41 and 42.
- (5) An apprehended violence order may be made by a court for the protection of a child in accordance with this section even though an application for the order was not made by a police officer.

39 Apprehended violence order must be made on guilty plea or guilt finding for certain offences

- (1) If a person pleads guilty to, or is found guilty of, an offence against section 13 or a domestic violence offence (other than murder, manslaughter or an offence under section 25A of the Crimes Act 1900), the court hearing the proceedings must make an apprehended violence order for the protection of the person against whom the offence was committed whether or not an application for such an order had been made.

- (2) However, the court need not make an apprehended violence order if it is satisfied that it is not required (for example, because an apprehended violence order has already been made against the person).
- (3) A reference in this section to a court extends to the District Court when exercising jurisdiction apart from under section 91.

40 Interim apprehended violence order must be made on charge for certain offences

- (1) When a person is charged with an offence that appears to the court to be a serious offence, the court must make an interim court order against the defendant for the protection of the person against whom the offence appears to have been committed whether or not an application for an order has been made.
- (2) If an interim court order is made by the court, the court is to summon the defendant to appear at a further hearing of the matter on the determination of the charge against the person (instead of as soon as practicable after the order is made, as required by section 22 (5) (a)).
- (3) However, the court need not make an interim court order if it is satisfied that it is not required (for example, because an apprehended violence order has already been made against the person).
- (4) A reference in this section to a court extends to the District Court when exercising jurisdiction apart from under section 91.
- (5) In this section, a serious offence means:
 - (a) attempted murder, or
 - (b) a domestic violence offence (other than murder, manslaughter or an offence under section 25A of the Crimes Act 1900), or
 - (c) an offence under, or mentioned in, section 33, 35, 61I, 61J, 61JA, 61K, 61L, 61M, 63, 65, 66A, 66B, 66C, 66D, 66EA or 66F of the Crimes Act 1900, or

41 Measures to protect children in apprehended violence order proceedings

- (1) This section applies to the following proceedings or part of proceedings:
 - (a) proceedings in which an apprehended violence order is sought or proposed to be made for the protection of a child,
 - (b) proceedings in relation to an application for the variation or revocation of an apprehended violence order if the protected person or one of the protected persons is a child,
 - (c) any part of proceedings in which an apprehended violence order is sought or proposed to be made in which a child appears as a witness,
 - (d) any part of proceedings in relation to an application for the variation or revocation of an apprehended violence order in which a child appears as a witness.
- (2) Proceedings or any part of proceedings to which this section applies are to be heard in the absence of the public unless the court hearing the proceedings otherwise directs.
- (3) Even if proceedings or a part of proceedings to which this section applies are open to the public, the court hearing the proceedings may direct any person (other than a person who is directly interested in the proceedings) to leave the place where the proceedings are being heard during the examination of any witness.
- (4) In any proceedings referred to in subsection (1) (a), (b), (c) or (d), a child should not be required to give evidence in any manner about a matter unless the court is of the opinion that it is in the interests of justice for the child to do so.
- (5) If a child is required to give evidence under this section, the evidence should be required to be given only in accordance with Divisions 3 and 4 of Part 6 of Chapter 6 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986.
- (6) For the purposes of subsection (5), Division 3 of Part 6 of Chapter 6 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986 applies to proceedings in relation to an application for an apprehended violence order, or a variation or revocation of such an order, in the same way as it applies to criminal proceedings.

42 Consideration of contact with children

- (1) A person who applies for, or for a variation of, a final apprehended violence order or interim court order must inform the court of:
 - (a) any relevant parenting order of which the person is aware, or
 - (b) any pending application for a relevant parenting order of which the person is aware.

The court is required to inform the applicant of the obligation of the applicant under this subsection.

- (2) In deciding whether or not to make or vary a final apprehended violence order or interim court order, the court is to consider the safety and protection of the protected person and any child directly or indirectly affected by domestic or personal violence.
- (3) Without limiting subsection (2), in deciding whether or not to make or vary a final apprehended violence order or interim court order, the court is to:
 - (a) consider whether contact between the protected person, or between the defendant, and any child of either of those persons is relevant to the making or variation of the order, and
 - (b) have regard to any relevant parenting order of which the court has been informed.
- (4) A final apprehended violence order or interim court order, or a variation of such an order, is not invalid merely because of a contravention of this section.
- (5) In this section, relevant parenting order means a parenting order (within the meaning of Division 5 of Part VII of the Family Law Act 1975 of the Commonwealth) that relates to contact between the protected person, or between the defendant, and any child of either of those persons.

 - (f) the relative bargaining powers of the parties,
 - (g) whether the application is in the nature of a cross application,

- (2) Subsection (1) applies to a failure to comply with a requirement relating to time, place, manner, form or content or any other failure.
- (3) In the case of an irregularity, the court may, on terms, set aside wholly or in part the proceedings or any step taken in the proceedings or any document, judgment or order in the proceedings or exercise its powers under the rules to allow judgments and to make orders dealing with the proceedings generally.

- (3) Despite subsection (2), an application for variation or revocation of a final apprehended violence order or interim court order must be made by a police officer if the protected person or one of the protected persons under the order is a child at the time of the application.
- (4) The application must set out the grounds on which the application is made and, in the case of a variation, the nature of the variation sought. This subsection does not limit the powers of the court.
- (5) An application for revocation of a final apprehended violence order may be made by the defendant even though the order has expired. Subsection (3) does not apply to such an application.

Note—

Certain consequences result from an apprehended violence order being made against a person if it is not revoked. For example, section 11 of the Firearms Act 1996 provides that a firearms licence must not be issued to a person who is subject to a final apprehended violence order or who at any time in the previous 10 years has been subject to such an order (other than an order that has been revoked).

- (6) A court may make an order under this Division revoking a final apprehended violence order even though that final order has expired if the court is satisfied that, were that final order still in force, it should be revoked.
- (7) In applying the provisions of this Division to an application for revocation of a final apprehended violence order that has expired, a reference to a protected person includes a reference to a person for whom the expired order was sought or made.

- (8) If an application is made by the defendant for revocation of a final apprehended violence order that has expired:
- (a) the Commissioner of Police is to be notified of the application, and
 - (b) the court hearing the application must take into account (in addition to any other matters that it is required to take into account) the effect that revocation of the expired order may now have on the protected person, having regard to the grounds on which the expired order was made, and
 - (c) the court may order that a further application for revocation of the expired order may not be made by the defendant except with the leave of the court.

- (3) The court may decline to hear an application for variation or revocation of a final apprehended violence order or interim court order if the court is satisfied that there has been no change in the circumstances on which the making of the order was based and that the application is in the nature of an appeal against the order.
- (4) A final apprehended violence order or interim court order is not to be varied or revoked on the application of the defendant unless notice of the application has been served on each protected person to whom the order relates.
- (5) A final apprehended violence order or interim court order is not to be varied or revoked on the application of the applicant for the original order or protected person unless notice of the application has been served on the defendant.

- (7) Despite subsection (5), the court may make an order extending the period during which the final apprehended violence order or interim court order is to remain in force without notice of the relevant application having been served on the defendant, if the applicant lodged the application before the day on which the apprehended violence order or interim court order is due to expire.

- (8) If an application for the extension of a final apprehended violence order or interim court order is made before the order expires, the order is taken to continue in force until the application is dealt with by the court.
- (9) Unless sooner revoked, an order extended under subsection (7) ceases to have effect 21 days after the order extending it is made or on an earlier date specified in the order extending it. However, further orders may be made from time to time under that subsection before the extended order ceases to have effect.

- (1) This section applies to a final apprehended violence order or interim court order if there is more than one protected person under the order.
- (2) An order to which this section applies may be varied or revoked in its application to all of the protected persons or in relation to any one or more of the protected persons.
- (3) If an application for variation or revocation of an order to which this section applies is made by one of the protected persons under the order, none of the other protected persons can be the subject of the variation or revocation unless the court is satisfied that he or she is at least 16 years of age and has consented to the variation or revocation.

Note—

Section 72 (3) provides that only a police officer may apply for the variation or revocation of an order where one of the protected persons under the order is a child.

75 Variation may be made on guilty plea or guilt finding for certain offences

- (1) If a person pleads guilty to, or is found guilty of, an offence against section 13 or a domestic violence offence, the court may vary a final apprehended violence order or an interim court order for the purpose of providing greater protection for the person against whom the offence was committed whether or not an application to vary the order has been made under this Division.

- (8) The Commissioner of Police is to make a record of the details of the material forwarded to the Commissioner under this section and is to retain that record for at least 10 years after the order to which it relates ceases to be in force.

78 Orders made with consent of parties

- (1) A court may make a final apprehended violence order, or an interim court order, without being satisfied as to the matters that are prerequisites to the making of those orders if the protected person and the defendant consent to the making of the order.
- (2) Such an order may be made whether or not the defendant admits to any or all of the particulars of the application.
- (3) Before making such an order, the court may conduct a hearing in relation to the particulars of the application but only if:
 - (a) the order to be made by the court is a final apprehended violence order, and

80 Enforcement of orders for payment of money

An order for the payment of money by a party to application proceedings (including an order as to payment of costs) may be enforced in a court of competent jurisdiction as if it were a debt due to the person to whom the money is ordered to be paid.

81 Concurrent criminal proceedings

A court may make an apprehended violence order, and a senior police officer may make a provisional order, against a defendant even though proceedings have been commenced against the defendant for an offence arising out of the same conduct as that out of which the application for the order arose.

82 Arrangements regarding classification of orders

- (1) If a court is at any time unable to determine whether to make an apprehended domestic violence order or an apprehended personal violence order, it may make whichever apprehended violence order it thinks fit.
- (2) If a court is at any time unable to determine whether an apprehended violence order was made, or should have been made, as an apprehended domestic violence order or apprehended personal violence order, it may treat the order as having been made as whichever type of apprehended violence order it thinks fit.
- (3) If an apprehended violence order is made or treated as having been made as an apprehended domestic violence order or an apprehended personal violence order but should have been made as another type of apprehended violence order, the order is not invalid on that ground and is taken to have been made as that other type of apprehended violence order.

83 Application of Bail Act 2013

If an application for a final apprehended violence order or interim court order is made, the Bail Act 2013 applies to the defendant as if:

- (a) where the defendant is arrested pursuant to a warrant issued under this Act or first appears before a court in answer to a direction to appear given under this Act—the defendant were an accused person charged with an offence, and
- (b) proceedings in respect of the application or order were proceedings in respect of an offence for which there is a right to release under Part 3 of the Bail Act 2013.

- (1) An application may be made under Part 2 of the Crimes \(Appeal and Review\) Act 2001 by the defendant for the annulment of an apprehended violence order made by the Local Court or the Children's Court in the same way as an application may be made under that Part by a defendant for the annulment of a conviction arising from a court attendance notice dealt with under Part 2 of Chapter 4 of the Criminal Procedure Act

- (1A) A person who applied to the Local Court or the Children’s Court for an apprehended violence order may apply to the Court for the annulment of the dismissal of the application for the order by the Court, but only if the person was not in attendance before the Court when the application was dismissed.
- (1B) The Local Court or the Children’s Court may grant an application for an annulment made under subsection (1A) if it is satisfied that, having regard to the circumstances of the case, there is just cause for doing so. If such an application is granted, the Court may deal with the application for the apprehended violence order as if the application for the order had not been dismissed.
- (2) An appeal may be made to the District Court:
- (a) by the defendant against the making of an apprehended violence order by the Local Court or the Children’s Court, or
 - (a1) by the applicant for an apprehended violence order (or, if the applicant was a police officer, either the applicant or the person for whose protection the order would have been made) against the dismissal of the application by the Local Court or the Children’s Court, or
 - (b) by the applicant for an order or a defendant against the awarding of costs under section 99 of this Act, or
 - (c) by a party to an apprehended violence order against the variation or revocation of the order by the Local Court or the Children’s Court, or
 - (d) by a party to an apprehended violence order against a refusal by the Local Court or the Children’s Court to vary or revoke the order.
- (3) An appeal under subsection (2):
- (a) may be made under Part 3 of the Crimes (Appeal and Review) Act 2001 in the same way as an application may be made under that Part by a defendant against a conviction arising from a court attendance notice dealt with under Part 2 of Chapter 4 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1986, and
 - (b) may be made only by leave of the District Court in the case of an appeal against the making of an apprehended violence order that was made with the consent of the defendant.
- (4) The Crimes (Appeal and Review) Act 2001 applies to an application or appeal arising under this section with such modifications as are made by or in accordance with the regulations under that Act.
- (5) For the purposes of this section and the Crimes (Appeal and Review) Act 2001, an order made by a Registrar of a court is taken to have been made by the court.

- (5A) Part 6 (Interim court orders) applies to proceedings with respect to an appeal to the District Court under subsection (2) in the same way as it applies to an application to the Local Court or the Children's Court under Part 4 or 5.
- (5B) If the District Court allows an appeal made under this section against the refusal to annul an apprehended violence order and remits the matter to the Local Court or the Children's Court, the District Court must, unless the District Court is satisfied that it is not necessary to do so, make an interim court order under Part 6 as if an application for such an order had been duly made.
- (6) In this section, party to an apprehended violence order means:

85 Presumption against stay of order

- (1) The lodging of a notice of appeal under section 84 does not have the effect of staying the operation of the order concerned.
- (2) The original court may, on application by the defendant, stay the operation of the order, if satisfied that it is safe to do so, having regard to the need to ensure the safety and protection of the protected person or any other person.
- (3) A stay on the operation of the order continues until the appeal is finally determined, subject to any order or direction of the District Court.
- (4) This section has effect despite section 84 of this Act and section 63 of the Crimes (Appeal and Review) Act 2001.
- (5) A stay on the operation of the order does not have effect if the appellant is in custody when the appeal is made, unless and until the appellant is entitled to be released on bail under section 14 of the Bail Act 2013 or bail is dispensed with under that Act. In the application of the Bail Act 2013 to the appellant, the appellant is taken to be an accused person who, because of the prohibitions and restrictions imposed by the order, is in custody.
- (6) In this section:
