(2) For the purposes of this Act, any pistol that would be a prohibited pistol:

- (a) if it did not have something missing from it, or a defect or obstruction in it, or

(b) if it were not for the fact that something has been done to it (being something that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, is not in accordance with the recognised specifications for that pistol), is taken to be a prohibited pistol.

Insert at the end of the matter relating to category H licences in section 8 (1):

In the case of a category H (sport/target shooting) licence, the licensee is authorised to possess or use a registered pistol only for the purposes of participating in competitive shooting activities that are approved by the Commissioner.

- (3) Subsection (2) does not apply in relation to a person if the person has previously held a category H (sport/target shooting) licence.

[7] Sections 16A and 16B

- (4) This section does not limit the conditions to which a probationary pistol licence is subject.

16B Special provisions relating to category H (sport/target shooting) licences issued for specialised target pistols

(1) In this section:

specialised target pistol means:

- (a) a self-loading pistol with a barrel length of less than 120 mm, or
- (b) a revolver with a barrel length of less than 100 mm, that, in the opinion of the Commissioner, is of a distinctive size or shape and is used in International Shooting Sport Federation competition events, but that is not otherwise a prohibited pistol.

- (2) The Commissioner may issue a category H (sport/target shooting) licence (referred to in this section as a special pistol licence) authorising a person to possess and use a specialised target pistol for the purposes only of participating in such classes of specialised shooting competitions as may be approved by the Commissioner.
- (3) For the avoidance of doubt, a special pistol licence is a type of category H (sport/target shooting) licence, and any requirements under this Act or the regulations that apply to or in respect of a category H (sport/target shooting) licence apply to or in respect of a special pistol licence.

[8] Section 17C
