6 Responsibility for contamination of land

- (1) For the purposes of this Act, a person is responsible for contamination of land (whether or not the contamination is significant contamination) if any one or more of the following is true:
 - (a) the person caused the contamination of the land (whether or not any other person also caused the contamination of the land),
 - (b) the contamination occurred because an act or activity of the person resulted in the conversion of a substance that did not cause contamination of the land into a substance that did cause contamination of the land,
 - (c) the person is the owner or occupier of the land and the person knew or ought reasonably to have known that contamination of the land would occur and the person failed to take reasonable steps to prevent the contamination,
 - (d) the person carried on activities on the land that generate or consume:
 - (i) the same substances as those that caused the contamination, or
 - (ii) substances that may be converted, by reacting with each other or by the action of natural processes on the land, into substances that are the same as those that caused the contamination, unless it is established that the contamination was not caused by the person.

- (2) For the purposes of this Act, a person is also responsible for significant contamination of land if either or both of the following is true:
 - (a) the significant contamination occurred because an act or activity of the person resulted in a change in some pre-existing contamination of the land so that the contamination of the land became significant contamination,

- (b) the significant contamination occurred because an act or activity of the person resulted in a change in the approved use of the land and the consequent increase in the risk of harm caused the EPA to identify the land as significantly contaminated land (even if the contamination itself did not change).
- (3) In determining whether a person is responsible for contamination of land, it is irrelevant that the contamination did not arise contemporaneously with the act, activity or omission of the person that ultimately was responsible for (or is taken to be responsible for) the contamination of the land.
- (4) An act referred to in subsection (2) (b) includes the making of an application for an approval under Part 3A, or for development consent under Part 4, of the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979.
- (5) A public authority or Minister does not become a person referred to in subsection (2) (b) merely by giving an approval or consent, or concurring in the giving of consent under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979.
- (6) A person who is responsible for contamination continues to be responsible for that contamination under this Act whether or not the person has entered a contract or other arrangement that provides for some other person to be responsible for the contamination or for any harm caused by the contamination.

7 Concept of notional owner

- (1) For the purposes of this Act, a notional owner of land is a person who is a mortgagee in possession of the land or who has a vested interest with respect to the land:
 - (a) that carries an entitlement to have a freehold interest in the land vested in the person, or
 - (b) that enables the person to dispose of or otherwise deal with a freehold interest in the land,so that the person is able to benefit from the value of the land, or a substantial portion of it, by such vesting, disposal or dealing.
- (2) Despite subsection (1), a person is not a notional owner of land:
 - (a) if the person, not being a mortgagee in possession of the land, is the owner of the land or is the Crown or a person or body representing the Crown, or
 - (b) merely because the person has a security (such as a mortgage, charge or lien) over the land, or
 - (c) merely because the person is a legal personal representative of a person who was an owner of the land immediately before the person's death or the appointment of the representative took effect, or

- (d) merely because the person is the Public Trustee and the land is deemed to be vested in the Public Trustee by the operation of section 61 of the Probate and Administration Act 1898, or
 - (e) if the person would otherwise be a notional owner of land, but:
 - (i) the person has some security over the land, and
 - (ii) the person (or a financial controller appointed by the person) has entered into a contract to sell the land for the purpose of realising part or all of the value of the land in order to discharge the obligation so secured.
- (3) In subsection (2) (e) (ii), financial controller means a receiver, manager or other person who has possession or control of land for the purpose of realising part or all of the value of the land in order to discharge an obligation secured over the land.

8 General functions of EPA

- (1) It is the duty of the EPA to do the following in a manner and to an extent reasonable in the circumstances:
 - (a) examine, and respond to, information that it receives of actual or possible contamination of land,
 - (b) address any contamination that the EPA considers to be significant enough to require regulation under Division 2 of Part 3,
 - (c) record what it has done under paragraphs (a) and (b) and the reasons for it.
- (2) It is the duty of the EPA to respond to a person (other than the EPA or an authorised officer) who has furnished information referred to in subsection (1). The response must:
 - (a) be made in a reasonable time, and
 - (b) state what the EPA has done in relation to the information and the reasons for doing it, and
 - (c) be in writing if the information was in writing.
- (3) In addition to any functions the EPA has under this or any other Act, the EPA may take such reasonable steps as it considers necessary in relation to investigating or managing contamination of land (including significantly contaminated land) or the threat of harm from any such contamination.

9 Need to maintain ecologically sustainable development

- (1) The EPA is to have regard to the principles of ecologically sustainable development in the exercise of its functions under this Act and is to seek the implementation of those principles in the management by other persons of contaminated land.
- (2) In this section, ecologically sustainable development and the principles and programs that relate to it are to be construed according to their meanings in the statements of principle set out in subsection (3) (the principles of ecologically sustainable development).
- (3) Ecologically sustainable development requires the effective integration of economic and environmental considerations in decision-making processes. Ecologically sustainable development can be achieved through the implementation of the following principles and programs:
 - (a) the precautionary principle—namely, that if there are threats of serious or irreversible environmental damage, lack of full scientific certainty should not be used as a reason for postponing measures to prevent environmental degradation. In the application of the precautionary principle, public and private decisions should be guided by:
 - (i) careful evaluation to avoid, wherever practicable, serious or irreversible damage to the environment, and
 - (ii) an assessment of the risk-weighted consequences of various options,
 - (b) inter-generational equity—namely, that the present generation should ensure that the health, diversity and productivity of the environment are maintained or enhanced for the benefit of future generations,
 - (c) conservation of biological diversity and ecological integrity—namely, that conservation of biological diversity and ecological integrity should be a fundamental consideration,
 - (d) improved valuation, pricing and incentive mechanisms—namely, that environmental factors should be included in the valuation of assets and services, such as:
 - (i) polluter pays—that is, those who generate pollution and waste should bear the cost of containment, avoidance or abatement,
 - (ii) the users of goods and services should pay prices based on the full life cycle of costs of providing goods and services, including the use of natural resources and assets and the ultimate disposal of any waste,
 - (iii) environmental goals, having been established, should be pursued in the most cost effective way, by establishing incentive structures, including market mechanisms, that enable those best placed to maximise benefits or minimise costs to develop their own solutions and responses to environmental problems.

Division 1 Preliminary investigation of land

10 Preliminary investigation orders

- (1) The EPA may, by order in writing served on a person, direct the person to conduct a preliminary investigation of land specified in the order (the specified land) within the time specified in the order to:
 - (a) investigate whether the land is contaminated with the substances specified in the order (the specified substances) being the substances that the EPA reasonably suspects contaminate the specified land, and
 - (b) investigate the nature and extent of any such contamination, and
 - (c) provide to the EPA such information with respect to the investigation as it may require.
- (2) A substance may be specified in a preliminary investigation order by reference to a chemical group of related substances if the EPA reasonably suspects that the specified land is contaminated with one or more of the substances in that group. In such a case each substance in that group is taken to be a specified substance for the purposes of this section.
- (3) A preliminary investigation order may be served on any one or more of the following persons:
 - (a) a person who the EPA reasonably suspects may have been responsible for contamination of the land with the specified substance,
 - (b) an owner of the specified land,
 - (c) a notional owner of the specified land,
 - (d) a person who carried on activities on the specified land, but only if the activities are of the sort that:

- (i) generate or consume the same substance as a specified substance, or
 - (ii) generate or consume substances that may be converted by reacting with each other or by the action of natural processes on the land into the same substance as any of the specified substances,
- (e) a public authority.
- (4) In the application of Divisions 5–7 to a preliminary investigation order, any reference in those Divisions:
- (a) to significantly contaminated land is taken to be a reference to the specified land, and
 - (b) to an appropriate person is taken to be a reference to a person on whom a preliminary investigation order may be served.
- (5) A person (other than a public authority that is not a person referred to in subsection (3) (a)–(d)) must not, without reasonable excuse, fail to comply with a preliminary investigation order.

Maximum penalty:

- (a) in the case of a corporation—625 penalty units and, in the case of a continuing offence, a further penalty of 300 penalty units for each day the offence continues, or
 - (b) in the case of an individual—300 penalty units and, in the case of a continuing offence, a further penalty of 150 penalty units for each day the offence continues.
- (6) Without limiting subsection (5), a person has a reasonable excuse if the person was unable to enter land because of the refusal of access to the land by its occupier in circumstances where entry to that land was essential to enable the person to comply with the relevant part of the preliminary investigation order.

Division 2 Regulation of significantly contaminated land

11 Declaring land to be significantly contaminated land

- (1) If the EPA has reason to believe that land is contaminated and that the contamination is significant enough to warrant regulation under this Division, the EPA may declare the land to be significantly contaminated land.
- (2) The declaration is to be made by notice published in the Gazette that:
 - (a) describes with reasonable particularity the land that is to be significantly contaminated land, and

- (b) specifies the substances that the EPA has reason to believe contaminate the land in such a way as to warrant regulation under this Division, and
 - (c) states the harm that the EPA has reason to believe has been, or may be, caused by the substances, and
 - (d) advises that declaring the land to be significantly contaminated land does not prevent the carrying out of voluntary management of the land by any person, and
 - (e) advises that any person may, within a period (not being less than 21 days) specified in the notice, make submissions to the EPA on whether the EPA should serve a management order in relation to the land or on any other matter concerning the land.
- (3) Each substance that is specified in the notice under this section is a significant contaminant and the actual or possible contamination of the land by the significant contaminant is significant contamination.
- (4) The EPA is to serve a copy of the notice on:
- (a) the owner of the land (or, if the EPA does not know the identity or address of the owner, the notional owner of the land, if any, whose identity and address are known to the EPA), and
 - (b) those persons (whose identities and addresses are known to the EPA) who the EPA has reason to believe are responsible for significant contamination of the land, and
 - (c) the occupier of the land, and
 - (d) the local authority in relation to the land, and
 - (e) if the EPA has reason to believe that a significant contaminant of land originates from the use of a cattle dip site on the land in relation to a treatment ordered under the Stock Diseases Act 1923—the Director-General of the Department of Primary Industries.
- (5) The EPA is to publish a policy on the Department's website on the Internet setting out how it intends to notify the public about:
- (a) land that it has declared to be significantly contaminated land, and
 - (b) land that has ceased to be significantly contaminated land,
- and it is to notify the public in accordance with that policy. However, failure to comply with this subsection does not invalidate any notice under this section.

12 Matters to be considered before declaring land to be significantly contaminated land

- (1) Before declaring land to be significantly contaminated land under section 11, the EPA is to take into account any relevant guidelines and each of the following matters with respect to the substances that the EPA believes cause the land to be contaminated:
 - (a) whether the substances have already caused harm (for example in the form of toxic effects on plant or animal life),
 - (b) whether the substances are toxic, persistent or bioaccumulative or are present in large quantities or high concentrations or occur in combinations,
 - (c) whether there are exposure pathways available to the substances (that is, the routes whereby the substances may proceed from the source of the contamination to human beings or other aspects of the environment),
 - (d) whether the uses to which the land and land adjoining it are currently being put are such as to increase the risk of harm from the substances (for example, use for child care, dwellings or domestic food production),
 - (e) whether the approved uses of the land and land adjoining it are such as to increase the risk of harm from the substances,
 - (f) whether the substances have migrated or are likely to migrate from the land (whether because of the nature of the substances or because of the nature of the land).
- (2) The EPA may declare land to be significantly contaminated land under section 11 even if the possible harm could come into existence only in certain circumstances of occupation or use of the land and those circumstances do not exist at that time. However, the circumstances must be reasonably foreseeable, and consistent with the approved use of the land, at that time.

13 Choice of appropriate person to be made subject to management order

- (1) If the EPA makes a management order in respect of significantly contaminated land, the order must specify one or more appropriate persons (or public authorities that are not appropriate persons) as the subject of the management order.
- (2) The EPA is to choose the appropriate persons from among the following persons:
 - (a) a person who is responsible for significant contamination of the land (whether or not there may be other persons who are also responsible),

- (b) an owner of the land (whether or not the person is responsible for contamination of the land),
 - (c) a notional owner of the land (whether or not the person is responsible for contamination of the land).
- (3) In determining the appropriate persons, the EPA is, as far as practicable, to specify a person referred to in subsection (2) (a) over a person referred to in subsection (2) (b) or (c) and to specify a person referred to in subsection (2) (b) over a person referred to in subsection (2) (c).
- (4) For the purposes of this section, it is not practicable to specify a person if:
- (a) there is no such person, or
 - (b) the EPA cannot, after reasonable inquiry, find out the identity or location of the person, or
 - (c) the person, in the opinion of the EPA, is unable to pay the person's debts or would, if the person took steps to comply with the management order, become unable to pay the person's debts.
- (5) Despite subsection (2), in the case where a significant contaminant of the land originates from the use of a cattle dip site on the land in relation to a treatment ordered under the Stock Diseases Act 1923, the appropriate person is:
- (a) except in the case referred to in paragraph (b)—the Director-General of the Department of Primary Industries, or
 - (b) if a person is responsible for significant contamination of the land (whether or not there are other persons who are responsible for such contamination of the land) because of the operation of section 6 (2) (b)—that person.
- (6) Any public authority may be specified as the subject of a management order whether or not as an appropriate person.

Note—

A person (including a public authority) who takes action concerning land may have rights of recovery against any relevant contaminator of the land—see Division 6.

14 Management orders

- (1) The EPA may, by order in writing served on a person who is an appropriate person or a public authority, direct the person to do one or both of the following in relation to significantly contaminated land, within such reasonable time as is specified in the order:
- (a) carry out any action in relation to the management of the land that may be specified in the order in accordance with this Division,

- (b) submit for the EPA's approval a plan of management of the land (a plan of management).
- (2) The EPA must serve a copy of the management order on each of the following persons in addition to any person on whom the management order has been served under subsection (1):
- (a) the owner of the land (or, if the EPA does not know the identity or address of the owner, any notional owner of the land whose identity and address are known to the EPA), and
 - (b) those persons (whose identities and addresses are known to the EPA) who the EPA has reason to believe may be responsible for the significant contamination of the land.
- (3) A management order may adopt, with or without modification, a plan of management submitted in accordance with a previous management order or, at the discretion of the EPA, a plan recommended by the EPA or submitted by a site auditor.
- (4) The EPA must not serve a management order on a person unless it has considered any submissions it has received in accordance with section 11 (2) (e) as to whether the management order should be made.
- (5) Despite subsection (4), the EPA may serve a management order on a person at any time if it considers that it is in the public interest to do so.
- (6) A person (other than a public authority that is not an interested person with respect to the relevant land) served with a management order must not, without reasonable excuse, fail to comply with the order.

Maximum penalty:

- (a) in the case of a corporation—1,250 penalty units and, in the case of a continuing offence, a further penalty of 600 penalty units for each day the offence continues, or
 - (b) in the case of an individual—600 penalty units and, in the case of a continuing offence, a further penalty of 300 penalty units for each day the offence continues.
- (7) Without limiting subsection (6), a person has a reasonable excuse if the person was unable to enter land because of the refusal of access to the land by its occupier in circumstances where entry to that land was essential to enable the person to comply with the relevant part of the management order.

- (8) If land ceases to be significantly contaminated land, all management orders in force in relation to the land cease to have effect.

15 Details of management order

- (1) A management order must specify the following matters:
- (a) the significantly contaminated land to which it applies,
 - (b) the nature of the significant contamination (and the nature of any harm that has been or may be caused) that the EPA believes may affect the land,
 - (c) the action that the person subject to the management order must take,
 - (d) a reasonable period for taking that action,
 - (e) any other matter prescribed by the regulations.
- (2) The period for taking action must exceed by a reasonable amount the period for lodging an appeal against the management order, except if the EPA considers that the nature of the harm or possible harm presented by the contamination is so serious that, in the public interest, action during the period for lodging an appeal is necessary.

Note—

Part 6 provides for appeals.

- (3) A management order does not confer power on the person subject to it to enter or do anything on land, for the purposes of giving effect to the management order, without the consent of the occupier of the land.

16 Actions that may be required by management order

Without limiting section 14 or 15, a management order may require a person who is subject to the order to do any one or more of the following:

- (a) to investigate the existence, nature and extent of any significant contamination of the significantly contaminated land to which the order relates,
- (b) to investigate the nature and extent of any harm that has been or may be caused by the significant contamination of the land,
- (c) to investigate the most appropriate means for undertaking remediation of the land,
- (d) to carry out remediation of the land,
- (e) to monitor the effectiveness of any remediation or the risk of harm presented by the significant contamination of the land,

- (f) to erect a fence, wall, bund or other barrier in a specified place on the land,
- (g) to treat, store or contain on the land, or remove from the land and treat or dispose of, any solid or liquid materials including any soil, sand, rock or water,
- (h) to vacate, or cease to carry on any activity on, the land or any part of it,
- (i) to display on the land any specified sign or notice,
- (j) to refrain from disturbing or further disturbing the land in a specified manner or below a specified depth,
- (k) to enter any specified land (which may, but need not, be the significantly contaminated land) in order to carry out the management order,
- (l) to serve notice of the management order on those persons who occupy land, access to which is necessary for the person to carry out the management order,
- (m) to have specified actions audited by a site auditor under Part 4,
- (n) to make progress reports to the EPA,
- (o) if the person finds that groundwater is contaminated, to report that fact to the Minister administering the Water Management Act 2000,
- (p) to make available for inspection by any person, free of charge, a report on the action taken under the management order, or the plan of management, and provide a copy of such a report or plan to any person for a reasonable fee,
- (q) to advertise and conduct meetings for the public to receive progress reports, and to make comments, on the action taken under the management order or on the plan of management,
- (r) to inform the EPA of any change in the ownership or occupancy of the land, to the extent that the person is aware of the change.

17 Voluntary management proposals

- (1) This section applies where one or more persons furnish the EPA with a proposal for the management of significantly contaminated land (a voluntary management proposal).
- (2) The EPA may approve a voluntary management proposal in respect of one or more of the parties to the proposal (an approved party).
- (3) The EPA may approve a voluntary management proposal unconditionally or subject to conditions by notice in writing served on each approved party.
- (4) The EPA must not approve a voluntary management proposal unless it is satisfied that:

- (a) the terms of the voluntary management proposal, as modified by any conditions to be imposed by the EPA, are appropriate (including any plan of management, provision for giving notice and terms setting out a timetable or requiring progress reports), and
 - (b) the parties to the proposal have taken all reasonable steps to identify and find every owner and notional owner of the land and every person responsible for significant contamination of the land, and
 - (c) the parties to the proposal have given those persons identified and found a reasonable opportunity to participate in the formulation and carrying out of the proposal on reasonable terms.
- (5) Despite subsection (4), the EPA may approve a voluntary management proposal even if it is not satisfied as to the matters set out in subsection (4) (b) and (c), but only if the EPA makes it a condition of its approval that the parties to the proposal cannot recover contributions under Division 6.
- (6) The EPA may serve a management order in relation to significantly contaminated land that is the subject of an approved voluntary management proposal but only on:
- (a) an appropriate person or public authority who is not an approved party to the proposal, or
 - (b) an appropriate person or public authority who is an approved party to the proposal, if in the opinion of the EPA:
 - (i) the terms of the approved proposal are not carried out, or
 - (ii) the management order relates to a matter that is not adequately addressed by the proposal, or
 - (iii) its approval to the proposal was given on the basis of false or misleading information.
- (7) A proposal ceases to be an approved voluntary management proposal:
- (a) if the EPA by notice in writing served on each approved party:
 - (i) specifies that it is satisfied that the terms of the voluntary management proposal have all been carried out, or
 - (ii) withdraws at any time its approval of the voluntary management proposal, and
 - (b) at the time specified in the notice, or if no time is specified, at the time the notice is served on each approved party.

- (8) If a proposal (other than a proposal referred to in subsection (5)) ceases to be an approved voluntary management proposal, the approved parties may recover contributions for carrying out requirements under the approved voluntary management proposal in accordance with Division 6 as if the requirements had been carried out under a management order.

Division 3 Ongoing maintenance of management action

28 Ongoing maintenance orders

- (1) This section applies to land that has been the subject of a management order or an approved voluntary management proposal (whether or not the land is significantly contaminated land).
- (2) The EPA may, by order in writing served on a person who is an owner or occupier of land to which this section applies, direct the person to do one or more of the following in relation to the land, commencing within such reasonable time as may be specified in the order:
- (a) to carry out any ongoing management of the land that is specified in the order,
 - (b) to provide reports to the EPA or any other specified person at specified periods or on the occurrence of any specified event,
 - (c) to inform the EPA of any change in the ownership or occupancy of the land, to the extent that the person is aware of the change,
 - (d) to not carry out specified activities on the land and to not permit other persons to carry out any such activities on the land,
 - (e) to not use the land for specified purposes and to not permit other persons to use the land for those purposes,

- (2) The EPA may, under section 88E of the Conveyancing Act 1919, impose restrictions on the use of, or impose public positive covenants on, any land to which this section applies for the purpose of the ongoing management of the land and may release or vary any such restriction or covenant.
- (3) A public positive covenant or restriction imposed under this section may require any owner (for the time being) of the land to do one or more of the following in relation to the land:
- (a) to carry out any ongoing management of the land that is specified,
 - (b) to provide reports to the EPA or any other specified person at specified periods or on the occurrence of any specified event,

Division 4 Action by public authority

30 Public authority may step in if person fails to act

If a person fails to comply with any requirement of an order under this Part, the EPA may carry out the requirement or may, by notice in writing, order another public authority to carry out that requirement.

31 Duty of public authority

- (1) A public authority that is subject to an order under this Part (whether or not as an appropriate person and whether or not because of the failure of a person to comply with an order under this Part) must comply with that order.
- (2) A public authority may carry out any requirement of an order under this Part by itself or its employees or by agents or contractors.

Division 5 Entry on land

32 Refusal of entry on land

- (1) An order under this Part does not confer any power to enter land, remain on land or do anything on land, without the permission of the occupier of the land.
- (2) However, if the occupier withholds or withdraws that permission, the EPA may revoke or suspend the order and instead make an order to which the occupier is subject as if the occupier were the appropriate person.
- (3) If the occupier carries out the requirements of an order, the occupier may recover costs in accordance with Division 6 as if the occupier was the appropriate person.

33 Liability for losses

- (1) A person who (with the permission of the occupier) enters any land, or does anything else on land, as required by an order under this Part, is liable (except as prescribed by the regulations) to the occupier of the land for any loss suffered by the occupier as a result of the entry or other actions (including any loss suffered by the occupier because of the interruption of the occupier's business on that land by that entry or those actions).

- (2) A person (other than the owner of land) who (with the permission of the occupier) enters the land, or does anything else on the land, as required by an order under this Part, is liable (except as prescribed by the regulations) to the owner of the land for any loss suffered by the owner as a result of that entry or those actions or for any injury to the land caused by that person.
- (3) In addition to any liability that a person who enters land as referred to in this section may have, the person has a duty to meet the reasonable costs and expenses of the owner and the occupier of the land in providing access to that land as referred to in this section.
- (4) A person has a duty to:
 - (a) take reasonable steps to minimise the loss and injury referred to in this section caused by the person's actions, and
 - (b) take reasonable steps towards restitution in respect of that loss or injury (except as prescribed by the regulations), and
 - (c) compensate the party that suffered the loss or injury for which the person is liable to the extent that restitution is not practicable (except as prescribed by the regulations).

- (2) A public authority may, by notice in writing, require an owner of land to pay all or any costs reasonably incurred (and not recovered under subsection (1)) by the public authority in connection with the public authority's carrying out (otherwise than as an appropriate person) of the requirements of an order made in respect of the land (whether or not the order was made in respect of the owner).
- (3) A public authority may enter into an arrangement with the owner of land for the payment of any cost under subsection (2), including an arrangement for the periodic, partial or deferred payment of such a cost, or for the compromise of any debt to which the arrangement relates.

36 Recovery of other costs

- (1) Person subject to order is not contaminator A person:

- (a) who carries out the requirements of a management order in relation to the significant contamination of land, and the owner (or notional owner) may recover a portion of the amount paid from each person who is responsible for the significant contamination.

(5) Portion The portion referred to in this section must reflect what is reasonable and just in the circumstances, including the following circumstances:

(a) the proportion of responsibility of each person for the significant contamination,

(b) the reasonable cost of any steps taken by each person in respect of managing the significant contamination.

(6) Reference to person In this section, a reference to a person includes a reference to a public authority.

(7) Persons entering voluntary management proposal may agree section not to apply If the parties to a voluntary management proposal have agreed that this section is not to apply as among themselves, this section does not apply to allow the recovery of any costs by one party from a second party unless the second party has failed to comply with the terms of the proposal.

(8) Costs For the purposes of this section, the costs of a person in carrying out the requirements of a management order include any amount for which the person is liable, or reasonable cost that the person has a duty to meet, under section 34 or 35.

37 Public authority's priority if owner insolvent

If a public authority carries out (otherwise than as an appropriate person) the requirements of an order under this Part in respect of land disclaimed (by a liquidator or trustee in bankruptcy) as onerous property in the course of proceedings for winding up or bankruptcy, the public authority may recover the cost of carrying out the order together with a reasonable commercial rate of interest and all associated administrative or other costs and expenses so incurred in priority to any holder of a security over the land.

38 Limit on liability of representative or trustee

- (1) The financial liability under this Division of a legal personal representative in respect of an estate (or of a trustee of property), that is or includes or is part of significantly contaminated land, is limited respectively to such value of the assets of the estate (or such value of the property) as the representative or trustee may lawfully realise to meet a liability under this Division.
- (2) A person is not, in such a capacity, personally liable for any costs under this Act that relate to an order under this Part that relates to the land and is not required to carry out such an order to a greater extent than may be paid for by the person's lawfully realising the assets of the estate or the property to meet those costs or that payment.
- (3) A reference in this section to a trustee of property includes the Public Trustee to the extent that the property is deemed to be vested in it under section 61 of the Probate and Administration Act 1898.

39 Registration of cost notices

- (1) A public authority that issues a notice to an owner of land under section 35 (2) may apply to the Registrar-General for registration of the notice in relation to any land that is owned by the person and was the subject of the management order to which the notice relates.
- (2) An application under this section must specify the land to which it relates.
- (3) The Registrar-General must, on application under this section and lodgment of a copy of the notice, register the notice in relation to the land in such manner as the Registrar-General thinks fit.

40 Charge on land subject to cost notice

 - (c) the completion of the sale of the land to a purchaser, in good faith for value, who, at the time of the sale, has no notice of the charge.

- (3) Charge is not subject to existing charges and encumbrances Such a charge has priority over every charge or encumbrance to which the land was subject immediately before the notice was registered and, in the case of land under the provisions of the Real Property Act 1900, has priority over every mortgage, lease or other interest recorded in the Register kept under that Act.
- (4) Charge not affected by change of ownership Such a charge is not affected by any change of ownership of the land, except as provided by subsection (2).
- (5) Registration of charge is notice If:

- (2) An amending instrument:
 - (a) must state the reasons for the amendment or repeal, and
 - (b) must, as far as is reasonably practicable, be served on the persons on whom the original instrument was required to be served, and

45 Obstruction of persons

- (1) A person must not wilfully delay or obstruct a person (including a public authority) who is carrying out any action in compliance with an order or notice under this Part.
